

Citing of PRD article criticized

Wilmington selectmen and housing authority members received some words of support and some words of caution Monday night from Rep. James Miceli on the town's application for $600,000 in block grant funds.

The town recently submitted the application for the block grant funds, with the intent of using the money to rehabilitate the Buzzell School into elderly housing, build a sewer on Cedar Street and replace the existing water main for Deming Way.

Miceli's words of caution were in regard to the town's having listed the proposal for PRD (Planned Residential Development) zoning in the upcoming special town meeting as an example of what Wilmington was doing to alleviate the housing shortage.

Miceli cautioned that including mention of the PRD article set the town up for a "hooker," if the town meeting turns down the article. "Then you'd have to explain that to the secretary," he said.

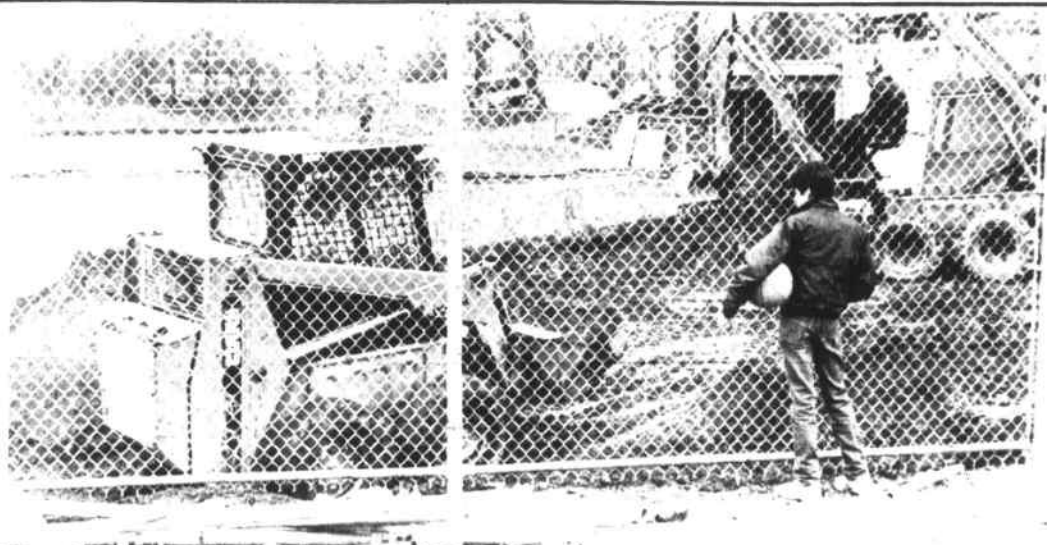

Miceli addressed some of his comments to Jay Donovan, who acted as a consultant on the preparation and submission of the application. The representative said he was not trying to pick on Donovan, but that he disagreed with him vehemently.

Miceli cautioned that in the event that the state wanted to turn down the application, "It gives them one more thing to hang their hat on. I'd be more comfortable if that wasn't in there."

"I'd think very small of the EOC if they decided to hang their hat on this," said Rocco DePasquale, chairman of the board.

While Miceli stressed that he was "upbeat" about the application for funding, his tone made it clear that he was upset over how the application was handled. He had opened his remarks saying that it was a state application, and that he was the state representative.

The application was not submitted through Miceli, but rather was hand-delivered to Secretary Amy Anthony of the Executive Office of Communities and Development by Donovan.

Digging in at home plate

Water problems have persisted at the Little League field at Rotary Park, even after a major rebuilding of the field last year. So, last week the Wilmington Highway Dept. completely excavated the basepaths and home plate areas of the field, replacing the soil with crushed stone. The work was completed in time for weekend use of the field. Fred Butters of Middlesex Avenue stopped on his way home from shooting baskets to watch the work.

Poor turnout, no turn-downs at annual town meeting

Beautiful weather, a school vacation and a lack of controversial articles combined to produce a sparse turnout for the Wilmington Annual Town Meeting on Saturday at the high school gymnasium. The meeting was one of the shortest annual meetings on record, with the budget and all articles passed in about six hours.

The meeting barely had a quorum. It was not until 2 p.m., half an hour after the scheduled start, that Town Clerk Priscilla Lynch declared that a quorum had been reached, and the meeting could begin. At 5:25 p.m., during the discussion of Article 21, for the rezoning of land on Concord Street, Duncan McNeill called for a count of the quorum. The count fell short by three voters, with 147 present. Moderator Michael Cairra declared a ten-minute recess. Twenty minutes later, there were 154 voters.

Except for that recess, the town meeting continued uninterrupted until its 8 p.m. adjournment, with no supper break.

One other unique aspect of the meeting was that no articles were defeated. Among the articles which passed were two for rezoning of land, both of which had been turned down by previous town meetings. The Wilmington portion of the former Drinkwater gravel pit, east of Route 93 and south of Concord Street was rezoned industrial, in Article 21. Also, a parcel of land at the corner of West and Lowell streets, owned by Al Fiorenza, was rezoned for general business, in Article 20.

The town meeting approved the sale of four parcels of town-owned land, all for residential use. Articles 16 and 17 sold adjacent parcels on Boutwell Street, diagonally opposite Roosevelt Road, to Robert P. and Sandra A. Gillis, and to Paul J. and Jayne M. Currier. James A. McNally received authorization in Article 18 to buy a parcel on Massachusetts Avenue at River Street. Article 19 granted Daniel J. Sullivan the authorization to buy a lot on Burlington Avenue, giving him access to a parcel he already owns, near Swain Road.

The proposed Cedar Street sewer, to connect the Deming Way housing for the elderly to the municipal sewer, moved one step closer to reality with the approval of Article 13. While not appropriating a specific sum of money for the project, the article authorized the town to spend whatever Federal or state funds are received for the project.

One article which usually passes without controversy is Article 7. The article, which appears annually in the warrant, seeks authority for the town to seek Federal funding, and then to spend it without further appropriation from the town meeting. Selectman Bob Cain successfully added a phrase to the main motion, adding the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to the sources of funding in the article. Margaret McNeill then moved to amend the article to change an "or" to "and." The change would have been to have both, not either, the selectmen and the town manager apply for such funding.

Mrs. McNeill said that things were changing so rapidly in town, that the town manager might be tempted to leave. "We need to have something concrete," she said.

Town Manager Buzz Stapeczynski said that some Federal grants require the signature of the chief elected official, and others require the signature of the chief appointed official, but that few applications required both. The change would unnecessarily complicate things.

The amendment lost, and the main motion passed.

The budget went through with amazingly little controversy. Among the items passed with no comment was a $6000 appropriation for tearing down the Curriculum Center, the old Center School.

In all, the town meeting appropriated $19.9 million, an increase of 3.5 percent over last year's budget.

Trash hauler wants to dump contract

Wilmington may have a new rubbish contractor this summer.

Town Manager Buzz Stapeczynski said that he has received a letter from Mike Vining of Vining Disposal Service, saying that he wants to terminate his contract with the town, as of July 1, unless the fees can be renegotiated.

Vining's contract, Stapeczynski told the selectmen, is for $209,000, which has saved the town $20,000 in the past year. He said that firm claims to be losing $1,000 to $4,000 a month on the contract.

Selectman Robert Doucette asked the town manager if Vining could show where his expenses are up.

Stapeczynski said that Vining has found Wilmington's rubbish load to be heavier than he had estimated, and that he has not been able to use the Tewksbury dump. Consequently, the rubbish trucks must travel farther, to the Tyngsboro dump, and the tipping fee is higher.

"It sounds like he underbid himself," said Doucette.

Complicating the situation is a promise from the next lowest bidder, Stanley Roketenetz of Woburn, to sue if Vining's fee is raised. And if the contract were to go out to bid again, should Vining be allowed to bid, having just terminated the contract.

Vining had to post a substantial bond to secure the contract, but the contract allows him to exit as of July 1 with no penalty.

Stapeczynski said that some of the trash which homeowners have put out presents problems for the rubbish collector. "It is not in his contract to pick up unacceptable containers," he said. Primary among such unacceptable containers are cardboard boxes and paper bags, which become soggy.

Also problematic were large items, such as refrigerators. These can be disposed of, but homeowners should call the Board of Health office (657-7511) to arrange for a pickup, rather than expecting the regular rubbish crew to lift a large item. The rubbish collector can take small parts from a car, but not large items such as a transmission or a fender, except by special arrangement. Also, building debris were not part of the contract. These are the responsibility of either the contractor or the homeowner, and must be paid for separately.

Restraining order halts land sale

A temporary restraining order was served on the Wilmington Redevelopment Authority (WRA) on Friday, April 22, seeking to prohibit the proposed sale of three acres of land in Lot 10A, to Altron, on Jewel Drive, Wilmington.

It had been prepared by the office of Donald P. Garrity, Esq., of 319 Broadway, Somerville. Mr. Garrity was representing Donald L. Robbins, owner of Woburn Truck Parts, Inc., of One Ingelow Ave., Woburn. Woburn Truck Parts occupies approximately 10 acres of land, just south of the property of the WRA in Wilmington.

A civil engineer, Howard C. Buttrick, with, he said, 25 years experience, said that in his opinion, the flooding of the land of Woburn Truck Parts, Inc. was caused by the work in the Wilmington Redevelopment at Jewel Drive. There was, he said, "irreparable damage." It was signed by him on April 20.

Attorney John McCann, serving the WRA, had the injunction partly lifted, on April 25th, by Justice Zobel. Judge Zobel held that the sale of Lot 10A, which is possibly half a mile distant from the Woburn Truck Parts, Inc. property, would have no effect on any suit by that firm. It was, he said, too far from the plaintiff's land.

Mr. Robbins, some years ago, had a similar action against the WRA, alleging flooding of his property.

African visitors attend a New England town meeting

Five visitors from Africa and a man who was, he said, a Rappahannock Indian, from the Powhatan Nation, were the in the non-voters section of the Wilmington town meeting last Saturday for about half an hour. It was, unfortunately, the duller part of the meeting, that of reading the figures in the budget, line by line.

The visitors should have been present two hours later, during some of the debates. They also were present at a town meeting which occurred during the school vacation. Unaccountably, that town meeting had very few voters. The spirit and "joie de vivre" of an average town meeting were sadly absent.

The five African visitors were accompanied by two persons from the Department of State (U.S.) and a Boston volunteer named Dee Primm. The Department of State personnel were escort officers, Arlene Jackson and Jacquelyn Costa-Horsey.

The surprise visit to Wilmington was part of a five week tour of the United States, as guests of the Department of State. The group had been in Boston. There were a couple of hours without scheduled activities. Why not visit a "typical" New England town meeting? Where, on Saturday afternoon, was there such a town meeting?

There was one in Wilmington, only 17 miles distant, and that resulted in a visit. The party had only one and a half hours to spend on the trip, to a poorly attended town meeting.

Part of that time was spent in what may be called a newspaper interview. The visitors interviewed the publisher of this paper, to be honest.

They were looking for a "typical" farming town. They learned that only two farms now exist in Wilmington.

They were curious about the number of black families. They learned that there were about 10. One man, David Fraser, serves on the finance committee, they were told, but he was absent.

David would have been an interesting person for them. He was born, not in the United States, but in Georgetown, Guyana. But he was in Florida on vacation.

But there were discussions of Route 93, and Route 128, and the technology-oriented businesses of the area. There were discussions of how people work in Massachusetts, but choose to live in New Hampshire.

Unfortunately there was no time to tell of the "black" history of Wilmington, of the Harnden Tavern where black run-away slaves were hidden in the years before the Civil War, and of the black man from Wilmington who fought in the Battle of Bunker Hill. That is something to be regretted, after the fact.

But there was conversation about their activities.

Sani Abdullahi Tota, one of the visitors, was an extremely pleasant person. He is the principal of the School of Islamic Studies in the Kano State Institute in Nigeria.

By the fact that he is the principal of a school for Islamic studies Sani Tota is a Muslim. So were several other persons in the group. But no enquiries were made, as to religious avocations.

Others in the party included:

Mohamed Sale, legal advisor to the Sudan Parliament, Sudan; Abdoulie Sallah, secretary to the cabinet, Gambia; Christopher Nyangone, undersecretary to the Parliament, Zimbabwe; Ronald Nhlalo, lecturer in the Department of Law, University of Swaziland; Barthazar A. Rwezaura, associate professor of law and acting dean, University of De Es Salaam, Tanzania; and Mrs. Mary I.D.E. Maitum, acting head of the Department of Research of the Law Development Center of Kampala, Uganda.

Town meeting visitors

A group of visitors from Africa, along with their hosts from the U.S. Department of State, attended the Wilmington Annual Town Meeting on Saturday afternoon.

Congressman Markey to hold open forum

Congressman Ed Markey is looking forward to meeting with Tewksbury residents at a special open forum Sunday, May 1 at Tewksbury Town Hall from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Markey and members of his staff will be hand to give citizens an opportunity to ask questions, voice their opinions and discuss any individual problems they may have.

"I've held dozens of town meetings in the 7th Congressional District cities and towns since I was first elected to the U.S. House of Representatives in 1976," Markey said. "but the open forums in Tewksbury and other communities new to the district are of particular importance. These meetings will help to strengthen and expand the lines of communication between my newest constituents and myself."

The towns of Tewksbury, Wilmington, Billerica and Lexington became part of Markey's 7th District in January as a result of the redrawing of the state's congressional boundaries.

"I have always placed a great emphasis on accessibility and constituent service. Through this open forum, I hope to assure the people of Tewksbury that I am anxious to hear from them, that I would be pleased to help them resolve their problems, and that I welcome their views and opinions."

"For these reasons, I am looking forward to this open forum in Tewksbury. I urge anyone who has the time to join me for this special meeting," Markey said.

Health Works '83 in Wilmington Saturday

Free health care is available to the community this Saturday, April 30, at the "Health Works '83" Health Fair to be held at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington.

From 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., residents of local communities over 18 years old are eligible for blood pressure, height - weight, anemia, vision, glaucoma, oral cancer and podiatry screenings followed by summary, referral and lifestyle counseling with a registered nurse and - or nutritionist.

Also available will be an optional blood chemistry screening for diabetes, cholesterol, triglycerides, kidney and liver diseases, gout, thyroid problems and 14 other tests. There is an $8.00 charge for this screening and it requires six to eight hours of fasting. This blood test series would normally cost more than $100.

"Health Works is part of a statewide network of free health fairs held during April 25 through May 1.

The health fair promotes the concept of the individual being responsible for his - her own health, stressing the importance of preventive health care. However, this health fair system does not replace the need for physical examinations by a physician. The goal is to alert people to potential health problems.

Exhibits will also be at the health fair on physical therapy, speech therapy, nutrition services, community health education, visiting nurses association of Middlesex East - Hospice Care, Wilmington Handicap Affairs Committee, home safety and fire prevention, pre-menstrual syndrome and the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Any handicapped or elderly person requiring transportation to the fair may call 657-3910, ext. 567 on Saturday. A van service will be coordinated by the Handicap Affairs Committee.

No reservations are being accepted and everyone will be required to register on a first come - first served basis. The Regional Health Center is a division of Choate - Symmes Health Services, Inc.

Variance granted for Wilton Drive lot

The Wilmington Board of Appeals has unanimously approved a variance to the zoning bylaw which will permit Leonard Chisholm to erect a one family house on a 60,000 square foot of land at the end of Wilton Drive. The hearing was held on February 22 and the decision was made on April 12.

Eight persons appeared at the hearing in opposition. Of these seven were residents of Wilton Drive. They objected, the appeals board said in its decision, because they appeared to believe the variance could ultimately lead to a street connection to Hopkins Street. Such an extension had not been proposed.

The board found that a literal enforcement of the zoning bylaw would impose financial and other hardship on the applicant, in that he would be denied the use of the 60,000 square foot lot of land.

The board also approved an emergency exit within the required reserve side yard area at 404 Main Street. The side yard is to the new building recently erected by Alan Altman.

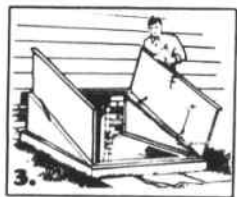

A third approval went to John Hobbs of Blackstone Street. Mr. Hobbs was given permission to erect an addition to his home not closer than 15 feet to the sideline of the property.

The Casket Lady — Part XXXI

Reactions to the Hiller funeral

©Copyright 1983
by Capt. Larz Neilson

The Hiller funeral was "like a big circus," proclaimed the Boston Post on May 24, 1900. It spoke of "mad curiosity seekers" and "no respect for the dead woman."

The Boston Post was not alone. Others had suddenly experienced a change in feelings. The stories in the newspapers, at the time of her death, brought this about.

Polly MacIntosh, talking of a daughter in England was the beginning. Polly was a niece of France, and knew much of what she said to be a fact. Whether or not there was ever a daughter in England has never been established, at least to the satisfaction of this writer.

It was in that same summer (1900) that Mark Twain (Samuel Langhorne Clemens) produced a volume entitled "The Man who Corrupted Hadleysburg." That was a story of humor and of laughing at the foibles of man.

Mark Twain could have written a story of "The Woman who Corrupted Wilmington," and would have found many to agree with him.

After the funeral was over the people of Wilmington had time to, well, sit down and think. There wasn't much enthusiasm expressed for the late France Hiller. No one knew just what to think, but as one story after another appeared it was quite certain that France had told a lot of fanciful tales which were not being borne out in fact.

Her death record, and the date of her birth, shown in the Wilmington cemetery have never been altered to any degree. Yet France told just as big tales on that subject as on any other.

Born in Gloucestershire, England, she had told the world she was born in Demerrara, South America. Born of British parents, she claimed her parents were born in Turkey. That's the way the record reads, to this date.

Polly MacIntosh set the records straight. She was mistaken though, at least it so seems, about the location of the daughter of France, for that daughter lived in Demerrara.

Mary A. Jeans, of Bristol, England, was a sister. Mary arrived in Boston about May 29, 1900, on board the new liner Majestic. She was interviewed on June 1 by a reporter from the Boston Journal.

Other than to acknowledge that she was Mrs. Jeans, the sister of France Hiller she did not have much to say. She was present, she said, because she was one of the executors of the will of her sister.

She thought, too, that the newspapers had already published enough about her sister, and didn't propose to add to that.

With Mrs. Jeans was a woman described as "the woman in gray." That lady was probably Celia Sweeney Carter. Her response to the reporters was somewhat sharp.

"I said, a few minutes ago, when we heard the train coming, that it would bring another reporter. Ever since Mrs. Hiller's death we have been receiving calls from reporters. There were seven or eight of them in line the other day. On the day of the funeral the yard was full of them."

The Journal reporter spoke to say it was the first time he had been in Wilmington. Mrs. Jeans did supply information, but she was short in her conversation.

She was going to return to England just as soon as she could. She might return to Wilmington and she might not. "There is nothing I can tell you that would interest you, in publishing."

Another Boston reporter did get an interview with Henry Hiller second. The big subject, of course, was the wills of France. There were, it was said, at least four.

A will for France Hiller was filed in the Probate Court by Atty. Francis W. Kittredge, who had been her personal attorney for a long time, and had been named the executor. That did not worry Henry.

"Let them file five, six, ten wills," he said. "It makes no difference. I've got the real will all right."

The will that Henry had was made in the office of Atty. John G. Maguire in Woburn. Mrs. Jeans was named as executrix and she and Henry were to share in the estate, said to be worth about $100,000. The will was dated November, 1899.

There were no public bequests in the will of 1899.

A previous will had given two hospitals and Yale University the bulk of the estate, with Henry Hiller second having merely life interest. The witnesses were Dr. Philip Buzzell, William March, a real estate man of Wilmington and W.F. Barrows of Boston.

Dr. Buzzell said that he had witnessed the signing of the will, but he did not know the provisions of that will. In fact, Buzzell said, he had been a witness to the signing of three wills by France Hiller.

The thing that made that will interesting was that France's niece, Polly McIntosh, was receiving only $25. Mrs. McIntosh was very unhappy about that, and there were many rumors that she was about to contest the will.

Lawyer Kittredge would not discuss the wills. He was waiting for the arrival of Mrs. Jeans.

But Polly did. From time to time she would make a statement, and they became known about town. Polly told some of the personal history of France Hiller.

When France was a young lady of 23, back about 1860, she had married a sea captain named Thomas Plant. He had taken his wife on a voyage to South America and it was in Demerrara that a daughter was born. That was the daughter whom Polly expected to see before the trial in the United States.

True or otherwise, it was a

Proposed zoning law has 'hammerhead lots'

The warrant for the special town meeting in Wilmington, on the 16th day of May, 1983, is one of the longest ever prepared in the town, even though there are only three articles. The purpose of the town meeting is to vote new zoning bylaws, and to adopt regulations for the construction of Planned Residential Development housing, in properly zoned districts.

The third article is to vote to replace water mains in parts of the Gowing Road area, and part of the Hathaway Acres area. It may prove to be more popular than the zoning articles.

The new zoning bylaw is 37 pages long and the PRD portion is another seven pages. The question can be asked: How many people will read them before the town meeting? The warrant has been posted in several places in town.

There was a long discussion Tuesday (April 26) evening in the library. In effect it was another review of the proposed zoning bylaws.

A. Daniel Gillis, now in the housing authority, but a former member of the planning board, and a former selectman, raised one question that had not been discussed before.

different story than that which the people of Wilmington knew. There were no Turkish parents. There was no truth to her having been born in Demerrara.

France Hiller came from a wonderful English county, not too far from the birthplace of Shakespeare. France Hiller had been living an imaginative life, if one wanted to believe Polly.

Where did France meet Henry Hiller?

Not in a London hospital. So said Polly. They had met in Canada, and had married in Canada, and then moved to the United States to a suburban Boston town before moving to Wilmington in 1876.

Polly did not discuss the qualifications of the two doctors. Were or were they not physicians? Was it true, as some said, that Dr. Henry Hiller was a "quack?"

Polly insofar as is known, had nothing to say on the subject.

129 studies go on and on

Every few months, or every few years, a crew of surveyors from the Massachusetts Department of Public Works appears, in or near Wilmington Square. They peer through their transits, and make appropriate seeming marks on Church Street, or Main Street.

They did this a few weeks ago. It was, it seems, so a new guardrail could be erected along Route 38.

A few years ago there was another crew.

That was so the railroad could be "deepened." The freight trains that carry automobiles to Boston now go through Wilmington instead of another route, and there is (or will be) as a result a new MBTA train service to Arlington.

It was about 75 years ago that an architect by the name of A. Chandler Manning proposed a bypass around Wilmington Square. He designed such a bypass and computed the costs. At that time it was peanuts, but nothing happened.

A few years later a Mr. Griffin did the same thing. That, too, got nowhere.

Approximately 25 years ago 10 Wilmington firms, at the request of a member of the planning board, donated $3,000 apiece to hire an "official" planner for the Wilmington Planning Board. Dr. Charles W. Elliott, a retired Harvard professor, was hired to find out what was right, and what was wrong with the town. He did a good job.

One of the things that was wrong was the traffic jam at Wilmington Square, the one that had been noted 75 years ago by Mr. Manning. Professor Elliott and Rep. Fred Cain started working on that problem together.

Elliott did a really good job, considering the advantages and disadvantages of (if memory serves correctly) 10 different possible routes.

The job took some months, and a route was decided upon, part of which is to be seen today, near the post office. There is a parking place between the post office and the fire station which is an accepted street in Wilmington, Olson Road. That was to be used as a part of the bypass for Wilmington Square.

Fred Cain was able to get the funds, and the plans were prepared. The right-of-way was surveyed and everything was ready for a call for bids. Then the US Congress passed the first of a series of environmental acts, and everything was put on STOP until there had been an environmental study.

Then the Massachusetts Department of Public Works was called in. Instead of surveying 10 possible routes to bypass Wilmington Square the DPW surveyed 16. There were hearings, and more hearings over a period of years. Professor Elliott retired, but the DPW just kept on grinding out more proposals.

The Mass DPW held a hearing on April 7 - after 25 or so years of work, on the proposals for Route 129.

The proposals were for improvements for the intersection of Route 129 and Interstate Route 93.

The proposals for improving Wilmington Square's traffic are in limbo, just as they were for the past 75 years or so. There are long lines of cars, daily, on both sides of Wilmington Square.

Some of the drivers of those cars are probably grandchildren and great-grandchildren of the original proponents.

Teachers' workshop

Inservice workshops for all Wilmington teachers kindergarten through grade 12 will be held Wednesday, May 4 at Wilmington High School from 1 to 4 p.m. As a result students at the high school and intermediate schools will be released at noon. Students at the elementary schools will be released at 12:30. Lunches will be served before dismissal.

Seminars for teachers will be held from 1 to 1:45 p.m. and from 2 to 2:45. All teachers will participate in both sessions. The seminars deal with a variety of topics designed for professional growth and for awareness of community - school issues. The facilitators of the seminar will be both teachers and invited speakers. Seminars related to personal interests and creative pursuits will be offered from 3 to 4 p.m.

Seminar day was planned by the Teachers Task Force to the Superintendent in answer to the needs expressed by members of the Wilmington faculty. It is expected that teachers will benefit greatly from this inservice program.

She will have her paintings on display at the Harnden Tavern, Route 62, Sunday, May 1 from 2 to 4 p.m. The exhibit, sponsored by the Wilmington Council for the Arts, will be featured at the monthly open house of the Tavern under the auspices of the Historical Commission.

Poor turnout for town meeting

Vacant seats were abundant at the Wilmington Annual Town Meeting Saturday afternoon. The opening of the meeting was delayed for a half hour, waiting for the quorum of 150 to be reached. Later a 20-minute recess resulted when a quorum count was called, and only 147 voters were present, during debate on Article 21. Business resumed after 154 voters were counted. School Committee Chairman Linda McMenimen noted that the town meeting was being held at the end of school vacation week, which probably contributed to the poor turnout.

Art students honored at Woburn Street School

Jennifer Wallace to wed in May

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wallace of Linda Road, Wilmington have announced the engagement of their daughter Jennifer to Scott Deardon of Methuen. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Deardon of Butternut Lane.

Jennifer is a 1980 graduate of Wilmington High School and is employed at Hogan Tire in Woburn.

Her fiance graduated in 1978 from the Greater Lawrence Vocational Technical High School and is employed by T.E.S. Electrical Contractors of Westford.

A May wedding is planned.

Marissa Iovanna, Dawn Iovanna, Mark Ware and Michelle Armstrong, students at the Woburn Street School in Wilmington, have made safety posters which are being considered in the final judging of the National Traffic Safety Poster Contest. The final winning student will be announced after May 1.

Woburn Street School art teacher Cynthia Mott is especially proud of these young people because they spent a good deal of their own time going to the art room and working to make their posters as well done as they are.

Alison Curtin, another contest winner at the Woburn Street School has placed in the top three for her age group in the Massachusetts Young People Art Contest.

Alison submitted three pieces of work for this award. A print made with a stamp she fashioned, a still life painting of fruit and a fine drawing of a bottle.

REPAIRING FRACTURE TOOTH

If you have a fractured front tooth, whether chipped or broken, this not only detracts from your appearance, it also can make the tooth more vulnerable to decay. It should be repaired as soon as possible.

In one repair method, the dentist may use a composite resin in an acid etch process. The chipped or broken tooth will first be cleaned with pumice and a revolving rubber wheel. Then he'll apply a dilute acid to the surface of the tooth so the composite resin will adhere to it. After the correct shade has been selected, he will shape the resin directly onto the fractured area. In a few minutes it will harden, and then the dentist will give the repaired area its final shaping and polish.

Other repair methods may be used, depending on the condition of the tooth, but often composite resin will be selected because it has a superior bonding quality and is relatively inexpensive. It also has a "time" advantage, because the repair can often be completed in one visit.

Tewksbury grants two new liquor licenses, changes location on another

The Tewksbury Board of Selectmen granted two new liquor licenses and okayed a change of location on another during a meeting on April 5. The board unanimously granted a full license to the owners of the Picadilly Pub and a beer and wine license to the owners of the Deli Deli Deli. They okayed the change of location for a full liquor license to Demoulas Market Basket in the Stadium Plaza.

There was little or no opposition to the applications expressed during the public hearings. A representative from Marshall's Shopping Center expressed concern that the owners of the proposed Picadilly Pub, William Martin of Westboro and Jon Klaucke of Auburn, make sure that the building has no adverse affect on the shopping center and a resident of Jerome Road objected to the beer and wine license for Deli Deli Deli.

Martin, who was present at the meeting and was represented by local Attorney Eugene Geary, said he and his partner will purchase the vacant Exxon gas station on Main Street across from the Post Office. The rear of the site is a direct abutment to the Marshall's Shopping Center.

There are Picadilly Pub restaurants in Westford, Auburn and Peabody. The Auburn location was also an Exxon station at one time, Martin said.

Martin and Geary showed the board and audience a string of pictures of the Auburn location and said that the new Tewksbury spot will resemble that setup. The firm figures on spending some $400,000 to buy the land and renovate and expand the current building for a family type restaurant and bar.

They propose to add some 2,100 square feet to the current 1,634 square feet in the building.

The owners assured the board that the restaurant will be mainly geared toward family dining. Martin said that there will be no video games, television or juke boxes in the bar section. They also said the bar section will be completely screened from the dining room.

The new restaurant will open at 11:30 a.m. daily and 4:00 p.m. on Sunday. The establishment will close at 1 a.m. every day.

Geary said the restaurant will hold about 140 to 150 people and employ some 40 to 50 local people. He also said that the renovation will remove what he termed "an eyesore to the community."

Martin said the establishment will have an unofficial dress code enforced. He said that law prohibits the imposition of a dress code, but the firm will ask that patrons have proper dress in order to comply with the policy. Martin says, "We try to hold by it."

The bar will hold about 20 people says Geary and the parking lot will be in front of the building and on the side of the 1.3 acre site. Martin says the restaurant will have background music instead of live entertainment.

The restaurant will open from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. for lunch, will serve dinner from 5 to 11 p.m. with last call for alcohol at 12:30 a.m. and the building cleared by 1:30 a.m. Martin balked, however, at having a detail officer assigned to the establishment at all times. He says, though, that he will assign a detail man for the first few weeks of operation and then turn over the checking of identification cards to an employee.

According to what Geary said at the meeting, ownership papers on the building should have been passed by now. He also said construction will start soon after the papers pass hands with completion set for somewhere around September.

Unsuccessful Selectman Candidate Dick Adams expressed his concern for an increase in traffic on Main Street due to the restaurant, but was told by the owners and the board that any increase in traffic should be negligible. Selectman Bill Hallisey said he didn't see the restaurant adding much traffic in the area. Hallisey said that the traffic from the area has dwindled somewhat since the Heartland store has moved from the shopping center.

The shopping center representative said that the shopping center is concerned over possible vandalism that may occur when the people are let out of the restaurant at night. She said that currently there are some kids who "hang out" in the area.

But some board members said that the presence of people near the site may solve the problem of hanging out.

Board Chairman Paul Sullivan assured her that the board will make sure the owners stay true to their word. He suggested that the shopping center tell the board of any violations they notice so that corrective action can be taken.

The shopping center owners are also concerned over the appearance of the rear of the building. She asked that the shopping center be sheltered from seeing dumpsters and other material kept to the rear of the restaurant. She also asked that landscaping be done. She asked a fence be installed to the rear.

Martin said he will put up a fence if he has to and that the rear "will be kept very orderly."

He added, "let us build the place and if you see any eyesore, come to the board and we'll do whatever the board tells us to."

Michael and Marie Gentz, owners of the Deli Deli Deli told the board they wanted to serve wine and beer with their lunches. The Deli will serve the beer and wine during lunch until 3:30 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and until 7 p.m. for the rest of the week.

Because most alcohol selling establishments stay open to 1:00 a.m., the board asked Town Counsel Charles Zaroulis if they can set restrictive hours on the license when they grant it. He said they could, but only at the time of issuance. Any expansion of hours would require another hearing.

The beer and wine will be served in plastic cups at the end of the cafeteria style restaurant.

Charles Ryan of Jerome Road opposed granting of the license to the establishment which is located on Main Street near Marshall Street. He said that there is only nine feet separating the back of the Deli from his back yard. He said a septic problem in the building has caused a problem to his house lot and added that the possibility of injury to his grandchildren was of concern.

Ryan also felt that granting the license may "open the doors to other things in the future." His reference was apparently to expanding the limits on the license, but the applicants tried to assure him that the license limits would not go any further.

Mary Sullivan of Foster Road showed strong support for the couple who represented themselves before the board. She said that the couple has worked hard to get where they are now and they should be given a chance to establish themselves.

The license was granted for 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. for Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The board also approved a change of location for the license of DeMoulas Market Basket in the Stadium Plaza. DeMoulas had moved their food store from their prior site to the vacant King's department store. That move was made during the first part of 1983, but the store had not moved their liquor license with them.

Atty. Kevin Sullivan represented DeMoulas before the board and said that the store would like to increase the size of their selling area. The prior operation was 4,000 square feet and Sullivan said the new operation would entail about 6,000 square feet.

The board unanimously granted the move.

Chairman Paul Sullivan, who is Kevin's son, did not vote on the license. The request had been tabled by the board in March when only three selectmen, one of whom was Paul, were present at the meeting. Because Sullivan could not vote on the matter, the remaining two members decided to wait until the full board was present.

William Andersen, Mary Beth Quinn exchange vows

Mary Beth Quinn of Fennos Street, Wollaston, became the bride of William Andersen of Park Street, Wilmington on March 26.

The 11 a.m. ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fr. Charles Collins before the altar of St. Ann Church in Wollaston.

Mary Probert of Quincy served as maid of honor while the bride's attendants included Charlene and Pennilyn Andersen of Wilmington, sisters of the groom; Heidi Sardina of Framingham and Susan Peruzzi of Quincy.

Earl Zimmerman Jr. of Dedham acted as best man while ushering duties were in charge of Joseph Quinn of Gardner, and Peter Quinn of Leisure City, Florida, brothers of the bride; Stephen Lucas and Gary Gonsalves, both of Reading.

The new Mrs. Andersen is a 1975 graduate of North Quincy High School and attended Bridgewater State College and Suffolk University, graduating in 1981. She is now working for Boston Financial Data Service in Quincy.

Her husband is a 1975 graduate of Wilmington High School and attended Bentley College. He is currently employed by the Lincoln Avenue Gulf Station in Haverhill.

Following a wedding trip to Disneyworld, Florida, the couple is now living in Quincy.

Project survives The Crack

Tewksbury gymnasium finally a reality

by Rick Cooke
Sports Editor

Tewksbury High School has both an addition to the existing building and a new gymnasium almost three years after a special town meeting voted for the plan, 394-139 in June of 1980.

The road to the completion of the $5.4 million project was not an easy ride, but one paved with potholes, cracks and delays that saw the addition completed in phase-in fashion, while the gymnasium never made the original deadline of this past winter, forcing the school's boys' and girls' basketball squads to play their entire varsity schedules in enemy buildings.

The project apparently has overcome the problems that plagued it along the way, with town officials, high school staff members and coaches alike praising it as one that the town can be proud of.

There is still a wary eye cast on the gymnasium however, where a crack in the floor developed this past fall, causing the final major delay in the project that forced the TMHS teams to hit the highway. No further problems are expected, but after all the problems that hit this surface, no one is taking anything for granted at this point.

The town finally agrees

After twice voting down addition plans to the high school, Tewksbury residents finally said yes to a scaled down version in a June 1980 special town meeting.

Finance Committee Chairman Joseph McNeil said at the time that "the present facility does not adequately house the present curriculum. It's (the addition plan) the best proposal that's ever been presented to town meeting."

At that time, between classes at TMHS looked like dollar day at Filene's Basement. The students were crammed into a space that made their education difficult and the teachers' jobs not particularly enjoyable.

Building committee appointed

An ad hoc secondary school building committee was appointed and spent six months developing the plans for the project.

The committee members included then Chairman of the School Committee Peter Downing, School Committee member Sonja Cuneo, Selectmen Charles Coldwell and William Hallisey, Finance Committee members Guy Galello, Richard O'Neil and Lawrence Polimeno, Superintendent of Schools John Wynn and high school principal William DeGregorio.

The town appropriated $6.5 million for the building and renovation project that would come in at around $5.4 million.

Among other items, the plan would include additional laboratory space and classrooms, the renovation of the cafeteria to a library and the construction of a new gymnasium in what was the school's gymnasium.

Town adopts phase-in plan

In the winter of 1981 the town adopted a phase-in plan for the

Rough shape

Early work on the renovating of the high school took on a rough look at the outset, with the demolition of the old locker rooms to make space for the new cafeteria and gymnasium.

project and that March awarded the contract to the Haas Corporation for $5,395,705. Ground was broken in May of 1981. Tewksbury would finally be getting a school and gymnasium that were comparable to other facilities in the Merrimack Valley and across the state.

Problems plague project
Labor problems and a bad winter of 1982 hampered the early stages of the project. Several different completion dates were discussed, set and scratched depending upon the ebb and flow of the weather and the builder's work force.

When the phase-in plan was adopted, school officials, and especially Athletic Director Mickey Sullivan, were hoping for a gymnasium completion date as early as October of 1982. Eventually that deadline was pushed back to at least the start of the winter sports season, then mid-January until The Crack wiped out those dates and at least temporarily shifted the project into low gear.

Sullivan scrambles to fill dates

November 15 the school committee discussed a crack in the floor's foundation that had first shown signs of developing in mid-November.

Now the scheduling scramble was on for athletic director Sullivan. The project would not have made the original October 15 deadline as it was, and with the respective basketball seasons slated to open in late December, Tewksbury had no gym in which to play its' home games.

Eventually Sullivan got his teams into gyms at the University of Lowell, the Middlesex Community College gym in Burlington and Shawsheen Tech.

The beginning

The ad hoc building committee gets together to sign the school addition contract in March of 1981. Standing from left, Selectman William Hallisey, contractor Jeff Haas, Finance Committee member Guy Galello, Rick O'Neil, Selectman Charles Coldwell and Superintendent of Schools John Wynn. Seated is Chairman Peter Downing and the school committee's Sonja Cuneo.

Girls' coach Barry Sheehan had his team adversely affected by the road season, missing a tourney berth for the first time in three years, while first year boys' coach Bob Melillo struggled with an inexperienced team that needed the friendly confines of a home gymnasium.

Whatever the problems were, the coaches were understanding of the situation. The seniors on both teams were the most disappointed, but there was really nothing the system or school officials could do at this point. The floor's flaw had to be corrected. Several times officials were quoted as saying that they'd rather see the job done right to its' completion than rushed for the sake of one season.

The Crack a continuing story

The Crack was a continuing story for several months, with the first open sign of the town's concern coming early last November when Peter Downing sent a letter to Superintendent

Wynn concerning the crack in the floor.

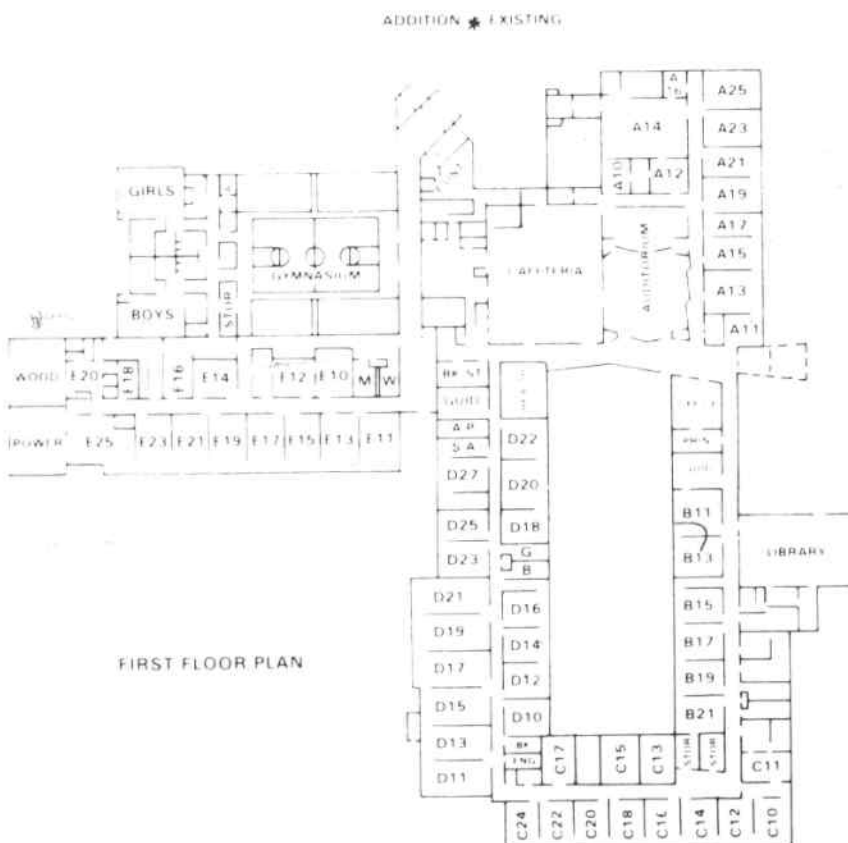

On November 15 the school committee discussed the issue of not only the crack, but the total slowdown of the project with Tewksbury Teacher's Association President Sheila Walsh.

Jim Sullivan of the school committee told Walsh and the association to take their complaints before the building committee, saying that the school committee had no authority to solve this particular problem. Although the building committee had an engineer examining the problem, Sullivan recommended the school committee hire their own consultant to investigate the crack in the floor.

Committeeman Sullivan knew where the flock of complaints would be headed if the job

Youth Soccer

Tewksbury opens with tough 2-0 loss

Court ready for action

A group of recreation basketball girls gave the new TMHS court a good baptism with an exciting tournament played in March, just days after the gymnasium was completed.

Super seating

The fans at the TMHS youth basketball games next season will be treated to some super seating with the installation of new comfortable bleachers.

wasn't done right. "Everyone will come back to the school committee in five years if this floor isn't perfect," said Sullivan.

Sonja Cuneo advocated letting the building committee handle the problem by saying, "the building committee is being very careful to be sure you're (the town) getting your money's worth out of this project."

Why did crack develop?

The reasons why The Crack developed were discussed, with the general agreement being that the job just wasn't done right.

"It (The Crack) wouldn't have happened if the school committee was on top of things," noted the school committee's Louis Carciofi, who was quick to also note that The Crack was a serious problem that should be corrected and not glossed over.

The two reasons that were eventually given for the flaw in the floor were that the electrical conduits were placed too close to the surface and possibly the concrete wasn't properly tested before it was poured.

That assessment came from the report of a structural engineer hired by the school committee who was later hired by the building committee.

Another word of caution came from school committeeman Tom Cooke, who said that the composition floor should not be poured before the final structural report was presented to the committee.

Builder admits error

The Haas Corporation admitted early last December that it had made a mistake, agreeing to tear up the bad areas of the floor and epoxy other smaller cracks in its surface. The builder would pour new concrete, subject it to a heat test and wash down the composition floor with the required chemicals enroute to a March completion date.

Haas also agreed to extend the guarantee on the floor from one to six years.

TMHS survives inconveniences

Not only were the basketball teams inconvenienced by the project's delay, but the school's physical education classes as well. Those classes were lucky to have a mild winter before skiing, snow shoeing and films were substituted for full fledged gym classes. Luckily the school was experienced in this situation, having suffered through a gym-less winter when the old gymnasium burned in 1969.

Project probably worth the wait

Whatever the difficulties with the gymnasium were, the project very probably will be considered worth the wait in the coming years if no other problems develop.

On first inspection, the gym is bright, painted in the non-school colors of white and orange. The rollaway bleachers are comfortable and seat-like, not wooden and hard to either sit on or maneuver up, and wide aisles will enable spectators to easily walk to and from their seats.

When the bleachers are folded up there will be two regulation size basketball courts contained within the gym. The surface itself is harder than hardwood and could be rough on the knees and ankles over a long season. But high school athletes are durable, and the surface is easily maintained with a sweep and an occasional chemical wash. The facility could be a fine one for at least 30 years if maintained properly.

Currently, boys' coach Melillo is conducting open gym nights for anyone who is interested in testing the spanking new surface.

Hopefully upon inspection, residents will feel that the money was well spent and that they have an athletic facility they can be proud of. No one said a project of this scope would be smooth sailing. It surely wasn't. But, if the job was done right, this much improved Tewksbury High School just might have been worth the wait.

Sports' Editors note: Tewksbury editor Jim Brown assisted in the compilation of facts for this report.

Where the Action Is page 11

The Tewksbury under 12-11 soccer traveling team dropped its first match of the season to a very strong North Reading team by the score of 2-0 in action last week.

North Reading scored an early goal and then played a four fullback defense to shutout Tewksbury. Late in the game NR scored a second goal on a breakaway.

Tewksbury fullbacks Pat Romano, David Meekins and Sean Wilson played excellent games, as did halfbacks Ryan Adams and Michael Doherty. Forwards Jordy Correia, Danny Femino and Richie Proulx played well, but were unable to score. John Field made some excellent corner kicks late in the game.

Tewksbury travels to Winchester this Saturday to take on a strong contender.

Tewksbury's U-12 girls started their first MYSL campaign on an excellent note by beating in order, Wakefield, 1-0; Billerica II, 1-0 and Billerica I, 3-1.

In the first game thanks to superb goaltending by Charlene Cestroni and a clutch second half goal by Justine Short, Tewksbury was able to fight off a very jittery first half to settle down and play an excellent all around game in the second half to get the win.

The second game was more of the same, as Tewksbury kept Billerica II bottled up in their own end with constant pressure, and thanks to a hard, low shot by inside forward Tricia Mazzone, got the 1-0 victory.

In the third and most recent game of the season, Tewksbury got three goals from team scoring ace Tricia Mazzone, with all three assists going to Julie Gryzbinski.

Coach Michael Schena praised each player's hard work and maturity over the first three contests.

Billerica II Tewksbury 0
The Tewksbury girls under-14 squad lost a tough game to Billerica I, 1-0 in a very close contest that either team could have won.

Both teams had several chances in the first period, with Tewksbury coming close to scoring when a shot from the right hit the post and bounced straight out and into the goalie's hands.

The second half followed much the same pattern, with both teams creating chances but missing the net. Billerica finally broke through on a strange goal, a ground cross from the right going through a crowded goal area and past a screened Tewksbury goalie with 15 minutes left to play.

Tewksbury pressured and on three occasions only superb saves by the Billerica goalie prevented goals with three minutes left. A Jean Donnelly shot went to the wrong side of the post with the goalie beaten.

This week Tewksbury travels to Concord for a game against one of the top teams in the division.

Maniacs 3 Toros 0

In a game at the Dewing School Saturday, the Maniacs established themselves as a team to be reckoned with. Along with outstanding defense by Joanne Morello and constant pressure from the offense, this talented team came out on top 3-0. The scoring was opened on a fine cross from Jeremy Duncan and a pass from Joe Sely that Tom Gerrior blasted home.

Jeremy Duncan again figured in the scoring, as he made it 2-0 in the second half. As the final few seconds ticked away, Joe Seeley sealed the victory with a shot from the penalty box that carried the opposing goaltender into the net for the final tally. Joanne Morello did a fine job at fullback, as she continually thwarted the Toros fine offensive punch of Vita Augusta and Alan Lewis. Patricia Flynn was also great in the win with her aggressive play for the Maniacs.

Surfs 2 Vikings 1

In the game between the Surfs and Vikings, Chris Thornton assisted by Diane McCormick, and Joe Ludwig assisted by Dave McElhenny scored the two goals for the Surfs. The fine two way play of Rick LeDuc, Dave Mattolo and Steve Wesser helped to hold off the strong Viking attack. Once again, Jim Ludwig had another fine game in goal. Eric Hansen scored the lone goal for the Vikings. Shawn Sullivan at wing and Tracy McCreedy at fullback showed outstanding talent and strength for the Vikings despite the loss.

Hawks 3 Rogues 1

Roy Kinzler started the Hawks off with a super unassisted goal. Brian Harmon scored the second goal with a great pass from Pat Amorello. On an indirect kick for Hawks, Bob Foster sent a beautiful pass to Howie Nichols, who scored the final goal. Laura Boyden at halfback and Keith Bennett at fullback played great games for the Hawks, and Charlie Thompson in net was again super.

The Rogues did manage to end the shutout record for the Hawks. Nick Guzley is credited with that important goal. Chris Fischer and Charlie Mellahan, both forwards, played well for the Rogues despite the loss.

Clippers 6 Cougars 0

Chris Vadnais scored two goals along with one each by Chris Martin, Brian Wahl, Mark Krueger and Chad Previte. Strong offense was played by Glen Harris, with excellent midfield play from Chris Bland and David Carroll.

The Cougars received excellent goaltending from Eric Mueller along with strong offense by Cam McLeod at forward and Jen McConnell at halfback.

Comets 1 Spartans 1

The Comets lone goal was scored by Ken Silvia. The game featured the strong passing and plays on offense by Jeff Poulas and Frank Kushmerik and excellent defensive work in goal by Brad Moore. Good defensive play by halfbacks Ann Conlon and Sue Beaulieu. Fullbacks Dan Gesin, Frank Graney and Pat Griffiths all played well.

The Spartans goal was scored by Tim Bedard. Goalies Brian Linnehan and Brian Kelly were called on to make many saves fronted by the fine play by John Nocera and Bill Bugley.

Falcons 4 Dynamos 1

The Falcons' first goal was scored by Rod Stecher, with an assist by Lenny Bolton, who also scored the second and third goals on long cross shots. Kim Kirk closed out scoring with a well placed penalty shot. Richard Treem displayed excellent teamwork and key passes to set up several scoring chances.

Three of the Dynamos' goals were scored by Joe Killion, while Robbie Lombardi scored on a penalty kick. Goal scorers were assisted by excellent play from Randy Nawn.

Ravens 5 Wildcats 3

The Ravens took their first win of the season with Shawn Proctor and Craig Thomas each scoring two goals and Peter Landry scoring one. Good all around effort was turned in by Debbie Sarantos and Paul DeViller.

The Wildcats played a good game, with goals scored by Benji Tyrell (two) and Robbie Williams (one). Goalie Eric Kelly played an outstanding game along with good defense by Tracy Grenier and forward Chris Dick.

Astros 2 Cosmos 2

The Astros tied the Cosmos behind the game played by the Astros' Donald Maguire, Terrence Wood and Heather McDonalds. Goals were scored by Michael Martel.

The Cosmos' goals were scored by Chrissy McDonough and Chris Baldwin, with strong defense from Sean Corrigan and Brian Raymond.

Hawks 4 Toros 0

The Hawks beat the Toros last week, as goalie Charlie Thomas earned his second consecutive shutout.

After a scoreless first half, Roy Kinzler opened the scoring for the Hawks, with an assist by Howie Nichols. Minutes later Roy Kinzler scored again, with an assist to Steve Picano. Pat Amorello pumped home the Hawks third goal off a fine pass from Jim Farley. Steve Picano scored the fourth goal, with an assist going to Steve Knight. Richard Driscoll was a tower of strength at halfback. The Toros put up a good effort throughout, especially in the first half.

Surfs 8 Apollos 2

The Surfs almost sunk the Apollos despite the tremendous perseverance by Jay Silvia and Mark Gerry with a goal apiece.

The goals for the Surfs were scored by Joe Ludwig (five), Chris Thornton (two) and Dave MacElhenny (one). Assists went to Rick LeDuc, Donny Morriss, Ken LeBlanc, Steve Wesser, Jason DiPersio, Diane McCormick, Linda Sarrento, Ken Smith, Donna Pinieri and Dave MacElhenny.

Also playing well were David Cronin and Al Riddle on defense and Jim Ludwig in goal.

Vikings 2 Rogues 2

The Vikings' two goals were scored by Erik Brown and Danny Fiore. Great kicking by Joe Conroy at fullback and Fran Nawasa in goal aided in keeping this game at such a low score. Mark Aylward and Bob Adrian scored one goal apiece for the Rogues, with Kelly Sills at halfback and Mike Gallo in goal.

Wilmington Little League

Indians win opener, 8-4

The 1983 Wilmington Major League season got off to a great start Saturday, April 23 at the newly renovated Rotary Park. On this beautiful Saturday, four games were played:

Indians 8 Tigers 4

Steve Lowmyer's bases loaded triple in the fourth inning sparked the Indians' victory. David Morse had two hits and two RBIs for the Tigers.

Orioles 5 Twins

The Orioles were led to victory with a strong pitching performance by Paul Trites. Paul registered 14 strikeouts, while timely hitting was supplied by Paul Wheeler and Frank Ramsdell. Danny Herrick and Dick Hersom displayed some excellent base running.

Chris Allen had three hits and Eric Cushing two for the Twins. Jeff Stevenson and Chris Allen combined for a fine pitching effort.

White Sox 9 Angels 2

Steve Hanafin struck out 11 while holding the Angels to two hits. The White Sox offense was supplied by Steve Hanafin (two hits) and Dale Gaffney (three RBIs).

Mike Smith of the Angels had a super game, striking out 14 White Sox, and collecting the Angels' hits along with Dennis O'Donoghue.

Yankees 11 Red Sox 4

The Yankees' Chuck McEwen pitched six strong innings, striking out nine and allowing only six hits.

Mark Kwiatkowski led the Yankee offense with a double. George Melitse and Joey Spencer turned in sparkling plays in the outfield, while Paul Kenney played a strong game behind the plate and on the basepaths.

The Red Sox' offense was supplied by Derek Sencabaugh and Steve Holbrook, each collecting two hits. Adam Pagliarulo turned in a strong relief performance for the Red Sox, getting defensive help from Anthony Barletta.

Cardinals 23 Mets 13

The Cardinals displayed a powerful hitting attack, as all 14 of their players had at least one basehit. Leading the offensive fireworks were Derek Stokes, Buzz Flynn, Louis Pisapia (also pitched the victory), Jeremy Regan, Ray Robinson (several outstanding defensive plays), Kenny Lee, Richard Stuart, George Orfaly, Dale Porter, Michael Sims, Eric Gronomeyer, Michael Botte, Steven Finnerty and Tim Chase.

The Mets also displayed some fine hitting with a well-balanced attack led by Richard DiPierri, Jim Kane and John Ciaramaglia.

Braves 7 Reds 1

Good pitching by starter Matt Callahan, who had 11 strikeouts and allowed only three hits, and Dennis Walsh with two innings of shutout ball, allowed the Braves to beat the hustling Reds, 7-1.

Timely hits by Steve Pasquale and Bobby Donaghy accounted for Braves' runs. Phil Fenton and George Pylotis played well on defense.

For the Reds, MacCutchen and Catanzano pitched well. Leading hitters included Andy Jamerson, Ryan Collins and Mike Luce.

Cubs 10 Pirates 9

The opening game of the Minor League season saw the Cubs come away with the win in a hard fought defensive battle. Scoring for the Pirates were J.

Pop Warner coaching positions

The Wilmington Pop Warner Youth Football Board of Directors is accepting applications for coaching positions at all levels of play, including head coaches and assistants for both the football teams and the cheerleading squads for the 1983 Pop Warner gridiron season.

All those interested in coaching should send a brief resume to: Wilmington Pop Warner, P.O. Box 337, Wilmington, Ma. 01887.

All questions pertaining to coaching requirements at the cheerleading level can be answered by contacting either Ellie Lyons at 658-4249 or Irene DeChellis at 658-4590.

Questions concerning coaching at the gridiron level should be directed to Pop Warner President Len Howard at 658-9824.

WHS softball

Methuen nips Wildcats, 10-9

Wilmington High School softball girls started their season off last week with a tough 10-9 loss to Methuen. The Rangers scored four runs in the last inning to overcome a previous Wilmington comeback.

Outstanding performances by a few Wilmington players provided some consolation for the losing squad. Cheryl Evans had five assists from her shortstop position as well as two extra base hits. Sandra Crowley played an intelligent and steady game behind the plate and is developing into a fine first year catcher. Kim Mytych's gritty pitching performance was admirable as well as her two hits.

Joan Sullivan's uniform resembled a Kentucky coalminer's daily working apparel which exemplified her afternoon's effort.

It was a long bus ride home, but this young team hopes to bounce back against Dracut and Lawrence next week.

Wilmac entry

Baseball tryouts Saturday

The Wilmac Astros, a new entry in the Eastern Mass. Baseball League, will hold tryouts Saturday, April 30 at 9 a.m. at the WHS varsity baseball field.

The tryouts are open to any and all residents of the area interested in playing semi-professional baseball in Wilmington this season. The team is particularly looking for players with pitching experience and ability.

For information call Jim Kennedy (272-0254), Dick Scanlon (658-2408), Howie Lafaver (658-8430) or Bob Dicey (658-5239).

The Astros formerly played as the Stoneham A's in the EMass League. Other clubs in the eight team league include Woburn, Chelmsford, Nashua, Hudson, Lawrence, Lowell and Peperell.

WILMAC is a non-profit educational and recreational corporation formed for the purpose of promoting athletics in Wilmington. At this time, the Wilmington Athletic Club is sponsoring the operation of the Pony League, Northeast and Eastern League baseball teams in Wilmington. These teams provide the only recreation and competition for many young people during the summer months.

The baseball programs in Wilmington presently suffer from a drastic shortage of equipment and playing fields, and as you can imagine, operating costs and umpires' fees have risen at a rate consistent with that of other goods and services.

All Massachusetts communities have faced serious cutbacks in property tax revenues. Unfortunately, public funds for recreation and sports programs have been cut significantly, and it has become increasingly difficult to field athletic teams not directly under the control of the school department. Consequently, it has become necessary to fund non-school related athletics through the private sector.

WILMAC has been formed for the purpose of raising the money required to carry on these programs. It has been estimated that it will cost in excess of $3,000.00 to cover expenses this year for the two Pony League teams, along with the Northeast and Eastern League entries.

WILMAC hopes that organizations and residents will be able to help defray the costs of these worthwhile programs. WILMAC plans to honor its sponsors in a number of ways.

The season fast approaches, so if you can help at this time, please send your tax deductible contribution to WILMAC, Inc., P.O. Box 769, Wilmington, Ma. 01887.

Thank you in advance for your time and cooperation. WILMAC looks forward to working with you and your organization toward the continued success of these baseball programs in the future.

Paving the way

Tewksbury High School varsity basketball coach Bob Melillo talks to the over 300 Tewksbury Youth Basketball League youngsters and their coaches who attended last Thursday night's awards banquet at the Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks. Melillo, who just completed his first season at TMHS, told the youngsters that hard work on the court and in the classroom pays off, emphasizing that he wants to develop the same pride in his hoop program that is present in the school's football, soccer and hockey squads.

Shoot Straight Basketball Camp

For the sixth consecutive year, Shoot Straight Incorporated will offer the most comprehensive summer basketball camp for boys in grades three through 10 and girls in grades four through 12, to be held at Gordon College from June 26-July 1.

The Shoot Straight system, developed by Mike Jarvis, Cambridge Rindge and Latin basketball coach, and Joe Colaninno, college basketball scout, uses a progressive teaching method that emphasizes skill development by using lower baskets and smaller than standard basketballs especially designed to improve ballhandling and shooting skills among the younger players.

Joining Jarvis at the Shoot Straight basketball camp will be guest lecturers from the college and professional ranks. Gerald Henderson of the Boston Celtics, John Thompson, coach of the Georgetown Hoyas, Tom Davis, formerly of the Boston College Eagles and now at Stanford University, Calvin Murphy of the Houston Rockets, and Tom 'Satch' Sanders, former Celtic great and Celtic coach have previously lectured at the Shoot Straight Camp.

As a special added attraction this year, coach Jarvis will lecture on 'Daily Drills to Improve Your Game.'

For more information on the Shoot Straight Basketball Camp and a brochure describing it, call (617) 933-2676 or 661-3974, or write, Shoot Straight, Inc., 43 Dix Road., Woburn, Mass. 01801.

Wilmington Tennis Club signups

There is still time to sign-up for the Wilmington Tennis Club's annual spring mixer April 30 and May 1 at the Avco courts. Any town resident is welcome to play or watch. Sign-up with Charlie Bishop (658-6066) or Nancy Newhouse (658-6526).

All those wanting to play on the tennis club ladders should sign up as soon as possible (by May 1). Last year's ladder players will start at the bottom if not signed-up.

New club members or club members not on last year's ladders will have an 'open challenge' during the first three weeks of play.

The ladders start May 2. Sign-up with the following people: Men's singles, Tom O'Malley, 658-4660; women's singles, Janet Cahill, 657-4206; men's doubles, Dave Webster, 658-2815; mixed doubles, Judy Conant, 658-9531; junior boys (16 and under), Dave Kwiatkowski, 658-3653; and junior girls, Maura O'Beirne, 658-9740.

The Tennis Club will be holding clinics and other events later in the spring and summer. Adults or juniors interested in getting started may still have time to sign-up for lessons with the Recreation Department. The club recommends the lessons taught by Bobby Williams, the Tennis Club's top player for several years.

Wilmington Pop Warner scholarships

The Wilmington Pop Warner Youth Football Board of Directors has announced that it is accepting applications for its annual scholarship awards to be presented to both a former Pop Warner player and cheerleader graduating from high school with the Class of 1983.

In order to apply for the 1983 scholarship, all graduating seniors must have participated in the Wilmington Pop Warner program, be a current resident of the town of Wilmington and must be planning to attend a two or four year college or a technical school in the fall.

Two scholarships will be awarded, one to a former Pop Warner player, and one to a former cheerleader in the Youth Football program, with the scholarship awards to be presented to the two recipients at the Wilmington High School graduation exercises in June. Application forms may be obtained by writing to: Wilmington Pop Warner Scholarship Committee, P.O. Box 337, Wilmington, Ma. 01887.

Application forms will also be available at the high school. For additional information, contact Linda Calandrello at 657-7010 during the day.

The deadline for receiving scholarship applications will be Tuesday, May 3, 1983.

Olin granted licenses for inflammables

Wilmington selectmen have granted Olin Chemicals of Eames Street temporary licenses for storage of inflammables. Olin had recently requested the license after the firm discovered that it did not hold the proper licenses for all its storage tanks.

The Olin plant is Wilmington's oldest chemical plants, dating from the early 1950's. Olin purchased the facility in 1980. The firm discovered in late 1982 that not all its tanks were properly licensed.

The firm filed applications in January, and in February, the selectmen tabled its request for licenses, pending state approval. On Monday night, James Dreyfuss, maintenance superintendent of the plant, told selectmen that the state inspections were being held up pending issuance of the license.

The firm has 12 storage tanks for Class B and C flammable liquids. Of these, four are for greater than 10,000, requiring state inspection.

Building inspector Charles Lawrenson and Fire Chief Daniel Wandell both reported that Olin personnel had been most cooperative in regard to their inspections.

Selectman Jim Stewart moved to grant temporary licenses through Dec. 31, contingent on state approval and receipt of certificates of inspection by a registered engineer.

Wilson Belbin, who lives about a quarter mile from the plant, brought up the point that selectmen had told neighbors of the plant that they would be notified of any hearing that was to take place. They were not notified of Monday night's hearing.

Chairman Rocco DePasquale said that Belbin was right. He said that the selectmen would make time during the May 9 meeting for either Mrs. Duggan or Mrs. Scolastico to ask questions pertaining to the licenses.

Mike Townley of Olin said there would be a problem with another delay. He said that the plant had been down on one of its processes, awaiting the licensing.

DePasquale said that the selectmen were not delaying the licensing, but were only arranging to have the neighbors make their feelings known.

The selectmen voted unanimously to grant the temporary licenses.

"I wouldn't waste my time to come to that meeting!" said Belbin. "It's all set and settled." In your notice to the neighbors, what are you going to say?"

Maryann Gigliotti to wed James Little

Maryann is a graduate of Wilmington High School and is presently employed with Marshall's Distribution Center of Woburn.

James is a graduate of Salem High School and is presently employed with North Shore Volkswagen.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Wilmington police news

Two young men from Tewksbury were sentenced to 30 days in the house of correction on Tuesday, on charges stemming from a break at the Forrest Mobil Service Center on Lowell Street. Officer Al Venuti discovered the break, and after a short investigation arrested Robert Riccio, 18, of 28 Dudley Rd., Tewksbury. He was charged with breaking and entering in the nighttime with intent to commit a felony, malicious damage to property, and possession of burglarious tools. Later in the morning, a second suspect, Arthur D. Little, 21, of 77 Temple St., Tewksbury surrendered at the Wilmington Police Station, where he was booked on the same charges.

They appeared in Woburn Court before Judge Louis Gonnella the same day, and were sentenced, the sentences to be served. Further charges are being brought against Riccio by the Stoneham Police Department for a service station break in that town, also on Tuesday. Officer Venuti was assisted by Sgt. James Rooney and Officer Frank Hancock.

A Charlestown man who crossed the Ipswich River while fleeing from Wilmington Police has been sentenced to a year in the house of correction for the armed robbery of the Radio Shack at Wilmington Plaza last September. James Murphy, 22, plead guilty on Tuesday to an armed robbery charge. His sentence is to be served after completion of a current sentence of 18 months to two years. Inspector Michael Celata and Sgt. George Shepard investigated the case.

A Burlington man was arrested on a charge of operating under the influence of alcohol early Saturday morning, after his car struck a utility pole in front of the North Wilmington Shell station. Robert Young, 20, of 38 Cresthaven Dr., Burlington was arrested by Officer James McNally. Three other occupants of the car refused medical attention.

Other activity
During the week ending April 26, Wilmington police officers responded to nine accidents, made three arrests and three protective custody detentions. Eight disturbances were reported, eight larcenies were reported, alert neighbors reported four incidents of suspicious activity, two trespassing, three traffic and three trailbike complaints were logged.

Twenty-two alarms were sounded, one assault and battery case was investigated along with four break and entries and three domestic problems. Two stolen vehicles were recovered, two threat complaints were taken and 11 incidents of vandalism are still under investigation.

Life as a young mountaineer

By STEVAN-ADELE MORLEY

Dave Armato — twenty-two year old Alpinist and outdoor photographer — experienced his first backpacking trek when he was just nine years old.

"My father, interested in the outdoors, although he had never gone on such a trip either, took me with a group of his friends and their sons to Mt. Greylock. It was December...and ever since I've been glad that he took me during the winter. There was snow, something I've always been interested in. We made camp in tents on the snow. Before the weekend was over, I knew I wanted to do more backpacking. I was hooked! Words can't describe the beauty I encountered."

Just before Dave turned twelve, he spent the month of August with his family in North Conway.

"We climbed that month! It was my first real exposure to the terrain. I fell in love with Mt. Washington and the Presidential Range," which extends from Pinkham Notch to Crawford Notch.

When he became twelve he joined the Appalachian Mountain Club.

"This afforded me a variety of backpacking and climbing trips to different locations in the White Mountains."

As he made friends with other members of the club, plans were formed for numerous climbing trips more or less on their own.

"I learned so much...that lakes are clear and the water in them is sweet. There are no rusty beer cans along the trails. Everyone respects the environment. There, the air is clear. Man has not contaminated the earth. The air. Or the water. There, in the great mountains, all life is free. Simple. Man is able to commune with his inner self. With his God. And all nature is in its purest form."

Dave will go anywhere and at any time of the year with his backpack. But he prefers winter mountaineering, from December 21 through March 21st.

"Winter mountaineering involves more knowledge, more equipment, warmer clothes, and many different techniques, but I love it more."

He explains: "Throughout the Northeastern U.S. there are approximately thousands of named and unnamed peaks for us to climb. The most challenging of these in the winter are Mt. Washington and the Presidential Range...and one of my all-time favorites, the Franconia Range."

In the summer of 1976 Dave coordinated an excursion on the great Appalachian Trail in Vermont. "We were out for nine days that time." Dave and his four companions backpacked over peaks and summits for fifty-five miles.

He has had two very narrow escapes. Each happened in wintertime, both were on Mt. Washington in New Hampshire, and they both took place on the same day!

"I accidentally slipped and began to slide toward a 1200 foot drop. I did a self-arrest with an ice axe and saved myself."

He says this is a technique that must be mastered by any Alpinist.

"The second escape came in Tuckerman Ravine on Mt. Washington. We had started our descent into the ravine when I began to realize the snow was falling beneath me. It was crusty but it was on an underground river. The river was still flowing underneath. My weight was too much for the layer of snow. I laid down on my back and began to self-arrest sporadically with the ice axe until I felt the danger had passed. I learned an invaluable lesson: I knew I was still far too vulnerable, and that I had much more to learn." He was sixteen.

He teaches beginners that they must make friends with the mountains. "One must learn how to predict weather. But no matter how much one learns, there is always more to learn. One learns all one's life. No Alpinist knows it all."

Dave Armato doesn't just climb mountains, he photographs them. One of his goals in life is to continue his climbing and take more photographs... "I want to sell the photos to help pay for the climbing."

I met Dave recently when he gave a slide-presentation before a group at the First Congregational Church in Stoneham. He spoke to an audience of boy scouts. His main lesson was "always be prepared!"

A highlight of his adventures is moonlight ascents. He explains one such excursion taken recently: "We began climbing Mt.

Washington at 10:30 at night. It was so beautiful words can't express the scenes. There was a full moon — the brightest I've ever seen. It was so full and bright it blocked out every star. The snow glowed. Mt. Washington and the Presidential Range were incandescent...they looked like we had reached another world. It was incredible — emotional!"

Dave likes winter climbing the best because "there are no tourists, no bugs. It's so quiet. Peaceful. And it's warm climbing, believe it or not. I suppose I prefer it because I have such a love for snow."

Winter or summer, Mt. Lafayette and the Franconia Range are his favorite climbing spots.

"There are two types of yahoos out there on the mountains who are in grave trouble," he explains. "One is the tourist climber — male or female — who undertakes a climb with no knowledge about climbing, the weather, techniques, etc. They have not learned that climbing is a very serious business. It pays to learn first. Lives depend on knowledge! And experience. The second type of yahoo is the climber who buys all the best and latest equipment but doesn't bother to learn how to use it before trying it out. They cause grave problems on the trail."

Dave says "nobody knows the mountains. There are constant dangers with weather changes. Alpinist know one of the first things they must learn about is weather changes. They happen so quickly. For instance, Mt. Washington is a polar region. In 1934 the winds were recorded at 231 miles per hour. Alpinist are constantly aware of wind and weather."

Dave says he climbs with climbers as young as six years old and as old as 82 years old. And both were good, Dave maintains.

A summer climber's pack may weigh 40-60 pounds. A winter pack can weigh between 50-70 pounds.

Liz 'n Dick: The play wasn't the thing

By RICK PEARL

In this case, the play wasn't the thing.

"Private Lives," the comedy written by Noel Coward in 1930, is a well-written piece of theatre. I imagine that when it debuted back then it was a smash. But what makes the current production such a hit is its two stars — Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton.

Let's make no mistake about it, people are coming to see this 50-year-old comedy to see Liz and Dick act out scenes that are hilariously similar to their own very "public" lives.

Ms. Taylor, who co-produced the show along with Zev Bufman, certainly knew what she was doing when she picked this particular play. The Taylor-Burton mystique is such that their every move is closely scrutinized by the public. They have been married twice, divorced twice, and yet still seem to be drawn to one another.

Depending on which gossip sheet you've read, the two still love one another but simply can't live together. In "Private Lives," written some 40 years before the Liz 'n Dick Show began to unfold, the exact same predicament occurs.

Naturally enough, then, Taylor

Dan Ferullo

FM TALK: Frankly this columnist is surprised by some readers' responses to a recent series of columns that occupied this space on the subject of rape.

Although an overwhelming majority of readers agreed there has to be tougher actions by the courts to clamp down on those who commit rape, there were actually those who felt it was the press that was "making too much out of nothing," as one reader noted. "If the press didn't go around looking to make a mountain out of a mole hill, half of these cases of so-called rape would never get blown out of proportion," this same reader went on.

Who was this guy? The gung ho father of — you guessed it — sons, who feels that "boys will sometimes be boys."

I wonder how the fathers of the girls who become the objects of these "boys will be boys" activities feel about that mentality.

Another surprise response came from, of all places, a member of a law enforcement agency via a reliable source. According to this source, my column on the controversial New Bedford rape case, along with every other news story he's read on the incident, he said, automatically took a position in favor of the young woman and against the men accused of raping her on a pool table in a crowded Big Dan's Bar.

This columnist's source noted that state police investigation of the incident has turned up testimony indicating the girl was willingly having sexual activity under a table with one of the accused rapists before the alleged gang rape took place. "I grant you that no woman deserves to be treated the way she was treated on the pool table by those men, but just how do you

NEMH holds silent auction

The New England Memorial Hospital Auxiliary will hold their 1983 Silent Auction on Wednesday, May 11.

Running from 2-4 p.m. in the hospital banquet rooms, the annual meeting is held to raise funds for the hospital and to increase membership in the Auxiliary.

Members donate household items, new and old, or fresh baked pastries. Guests preview the assortment of goods, turn in silent bids, and learn who offered the highest bids.

All proceeds raised will be applied to the Auxiliary's pledge to provide the hospital's maternity unit with several new pieces of diagnostic and monitoring equipment.

Community members are invited to attend, join in the bidding, and to meet members of the NEMH Auxiliary who will be on hand to answer questions about the fund-raising organization and its membership.

For further information, call Miriam Moore, Director of Volunteers, NEMH, 665-1740, ext. 319.

Life as mountaineer-photographer

"Winter packs include snow shoes, ice axe, ice screws, crampons for your feet, and much more winter equipment."

Dave has worked hard to reduce the weight of his winter pack down to approximately 55 pounds, and this includes his camera equipment, too. He says, "Beginners have a tendency to take more than they need. But they soon learn to pack essentials."

He talks about the many textures of snow. "A good Alpinist learns as many textures as he can. An Alpinist never graduates. He is always learning — weather, people, snow textures, environment..."

Though Dave loves mountains, he doesn't ski. But he has been cross-country skiing for the past seven years.

He says, "Most people ask me about the animals I've seen on my trips. I spotted a moose on Mt. Washington recently. I see a lot of moose droppings so I know they're there. Same for deer. In the fall of 1979 I saw a bald eagle on Baker Peak in Vermont. I spotted a bear once. I think the animals know we climbers are their friends..." Dave Armato doesn't believe in hunting or killing any living thing, especially on their terra firma. "It's not fair...nature takes care of its own."

Dave is in the last few weeks of college at Northeastern University, where he has been majoring in Environmental Biology. He gives slide presentations of his climbs in the Northeastern U.S. to anyone who calls and schedules him. He enjoys telling about his many adventures. Likes to explain how he got started. And his photographs are clear and beautiful. His face lights up when he explains what it's like to crawl into a warm sleeping bag in his tent when it's twenty degrees below. If you are interested in seeing his photographs and hearing about his adventures, or perhaps are interested in this particular sport, call Dave Armato between six and ten p.m. at 438-1652.

Dave patiently waits for the day when he can turn his avocation into a life vocation. His dreams are as great as the mountains left for him to climb. There is Mt. Rainier in Washington State. He says he would love to go to Scotland to learn more advanced techniques from professional climbers. One of his goals is to go to Chamonix, a valley of eastern France, north of Mont Blanc... visit with the old timers, perhaps be part of an expedition up Mont Blanc. Another goal of his is to one day join a group climbing the Himalaya Mountains — specifically, Mount Everest.

Dave told me, "Whenever I reach the peak of a mountain I always yell into the ether waves 'THIS IS JUST GRAND!'"

After meeting this young man and spending several delightful hours with him, I believe he will realize his goals. I really feel that Dave will yell his version of Excelsior from the peaks of many mountains before he hangs up his pack.

Liz 'n Dick

appears as Amanda Prynn, the former wife of Elyot Chase (Burton), whom she accidentally meets up with on their respective second honeymoons in Deauville, on the coast of France. Amanda is with the wimpy Victor Prynn, and Elyot is with the new Mrs. Chase, the equally wimpy Sybil.

On the first night of their honeymoons Amanda and Elyot fall madly in love all over again and decide to abort their ill-fated second marriages.

The remainder of the play chronicles the on-again, off-again souring of their relationship as they run off with one another to Paris.

What makes the whole thing work is the magical interrelationship between Taylor and Burton. Lines that otherwise wouldn't be funny are hilarious ("I think I'm rather afraid of marriage," Amanda tells Elyot at one point), while the jokes themselves become even more humorous.

There are strong supporting roles played by Kathryn Walker (as Sybil) and John Cullum (as Victor), in addition to a wonderful cameo role by Helena Carroll as the French maid Louise.

"Private Lives" will probably be one of the more expensive tickets in town, and one of the most scarce, but it is well worth it. The show moves quickly and Taylor and Burton hold your attention throughout with spell-binding performances.

Because of the public's continuing fascination with these two, "Private Lives" is something of a private joke that Taylor and Burton are playing on the audience. They are parodying their own lives, with the joke being that only they know how close the play comes to being factual.

SMOKE-ENDERS COURSE

To many, spring is a time for opening windows and letting fresh air in, of spring cleaning to help chase away the stale odors of winter.

To all smokers, spring should be a time to clear their lungs of cigarette smoke — forever.

To help the, Choate-Symmes Health Services, Inc., is sponsoring "I Quit," a four-part self-help smoking cessation course presented by the American Cancer Society.

The classes will be held in the Auditorium at the Symmes Hospital Division from 7:30 to 9:30 on the following evenings: Thursday, April 28; Monday, May 2; Thursday, May 5; and Monday, May 9. An initial fee of $25. (check to be made out to the American Cancer Society) will be refunded at the rate of $5 per class attended, the remaining $5 used to offset the cancer society's cost of materials.

To register, please call the Community Relations Department, located at the Symmes Hospital Division: 646-1500, Ext. 1440.

COLLEGE FAIR

Girl Scouting: blending practical skills with traditional ideals

By Marilyn Hoffman
Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor
New York

Girl Scout cookie sales are still an important rite of spring for Scout troops across the country. But Girl Scouting itself has changed enormously over the last few years.

Last year, members sold 127 million boxes of Girl Scout cookies, for a gross revenue of $213 million. The results of changes in the organization's approach and programs are not so easy to calculate.

"All I can say," says Frances Hesselbein, national executive director of the organization since 1976, "is that it is all good. We are fulfilling our goals of helping today's girls become productive, self-confident, socially responsible women. And our planning is staying abreast of future trends."

Program changes involve a more hard-nosed relevancy to the contemporary world and to the current needs and interests of girls growing up in it. Although the majority of U.S. members are white, nearly 12 percent comes from other racial and ethnic groups, including blacks (who now make up almost 8 percent of the total), Hispanics, girls from Asia or the Pacific Islands, and American Indians. "Nobody ever said the Girl Scout promise with more feeling or eagerness than the little Vietnamese girls who were 'boat people' refugees not too long ago and are now troop members in Pennsylvania," Mrs. Hesselbein says.

Girl Scout handbooks are now published in Spanish and Braille as well as in English. And there is a continuing effort to involve handicapped girls in Scouting, and to reach out to those who are economically disadvantaged.

There are also more big-city troops, many of them in ghettos and areas such as Manhattan's Harlem, with programs that offer help with school homework, environmental awareness, personal protection, and development of job skills. These programs also help build self-esteem and self-respect in girls with courses in resourcefulness and decisionmaking. These troops often meet in local community centers, which provide a haven from tough streets. "We are tackling poverty, delinquency, and even teen-age pregnancy in these poor neighborhoods," says Mrs. Hesselbein, "but our purpose is to nurture and encourage, as well as teach, and to help prepare these girls for their future lives."

For several years there has been broad recognition that most of today's Girl Scouts will grow up to be, not homemakers as was assumed in the past, but members of the labor force who will work much of their adult lives. A program of career education was launched which introduces Scouts, through handbooks, programs, and other special materials, to 95 career possibilities. Girls might learn what it takes to become a soil expert, political scientist, computer specialist, or police officer. The program also teaches older Scouts such fundamentals as how to write a resume and apply for a job.

Last year, while 60 Girl Scouts in New York City camped out overnight on the observation deck of the Empire State Building in a program to learn more about the city, a troop in the Middle West read the Lewis and Clark journals and then planned a canoe trip covering part of the river route of the famous explorers. A troop in South Carolina planned a conference for members and parents that covered such subjects as premarital sex and venereal disease. And last summer 50 members from around the country gathered in the Adirondacks to acquaint themselves with aerodynamics by learning to "creep" on hot air balloons.

Other troops are learning about drug abuse, energy conservation, computers, and consumer tips. They are earning competency badges in such practical things as auto mechanics, home repairs, communications, meteorology, and a subject called "Business-wise."

"This 71-year-old organization is putting more emphasis today on math, science, and technology in our programming, because that is where so much of the action is," Mrs. Hesselbein says. The Girl Scout motto is still "Be Prepared," but it now has a broader connotation and application. Although one New York girl admitted that some of her friends still thought of Girl Scouts as goody-goody types or

"Little Miss Muffets," the program today, and the hardy Scouts who are following it, belie such epithets.

Girl Scouts still learn, in their own vernacular, to be friendmakers, ready helpers, and discoverers. They still explore the out-of-doors, practice camping skills, take nature walks, make handicrafts, play games, and sing.

Since 1979 there has been a new "nontroop" classification of membership which enables certain members with heavy schedules to participate only in special-interest projects such as field trips and conferences. Another change is the current wide choice of uniform styles. These offer mix-and-match components that can be worn in a variety of ways to suit individual tastes.

"In the next five years," Mrs. Hesselbein says, "we plan to be even more sensitive to the families of the girls we serve, and to the communities in which they live. We are now studying changing profiles of the American family, with the aim of finding new ways in which we can support and strengthen it. Already we are giving special attention to single-parent families, and are seeing that good strong Scout leaders can become that 'significant other' third person that can be particularly supportive to both single parents and to their children."

The peak year for Girl Scouts in the US was 1969, when membership was 3.9 million. During the 1970s, as the number of girls in the country declined, so did Girl Scout membership. In 1981 membership was 2.8 million. The organization is now growing once more, and Mrs. Hesselbein is estimating a possible 3 million members by the end of 1983.

"We are experiencing a phenomenal increase in adult volunteer membership," she says, "and now have 500,000 women in service and about 70,000 men, including many retirees with remarkable skills."

Are all these changes in keeping with the ideals established by Juliette Gordon Low, when she established the US organization in 1912 in Savannah, Ga.? Yes, Mrs. Hesselbein says emphatically. "Mrs. Low wanted girls to think big, to be independent and self-reliant, and to prepare themselves to be the best they could be, whether as homemakers or as professional workers. We have been modernizing and updating the process, but the goals remain the same."

Will the Girl Scouts ever open membership to boys? No, says Mrs. Orville L. Freeman, national president. "The board of directors of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. and the World Committee for the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts, with nearly 9 million members in 104 nations, have both voted to retain an all-girl focus and to hold membership to girls only."

Highland Players to perform at Billerica High School

The Highland Players will complete their spring show schedule on Friday, May 6, and Saturday, May 7, with their final season performances at Billerica High School to benefit the Billerica Little League Auxiliary.

Market Place and at other benefit shows in the Lowell-Dracut area. This year's show has been playing to standing room only audiences in the area. This year's musical variety show is entitled "I Feel a Song Coming On." In addition to musical numbers by the chorus and soloists, the show includes comedy skits and specialty dance numbers.

Mickey Mouse and Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. Scenery has been designed by cast member Paul Belanger.

Former Highland Player Janine Graham will make a special guest appearance at the show.

Ticket information may be obtained by calling Laura Buck 663-4964, Liz Egan 667-1407, Barbara O'Toole 663-3675. Donation will be $4.00 per person.

The finale will be a tribute to Walt Disney featuring Disney characters such as

During the age of the Romans, balloting was done with beans. White beans were a vote of approval and dark beans meant a negative vote.

The first time the Olympic Games were held in the United States was in 1904, in St. Louis, Missouri.

expect a barful of intoxicated men to react when they see a girl behaving like that in public?" the source queried.

This columnist did not respond. Instead, I asked that question to a woman I'd randomly encountered later, to get a female perspective.

Her reply? "It's my right to say 'yes' to whomever I want, and it's also my right to say 'no' to whomever I want."

The controversy rages on. Meanwhile, there doesn't seem to be a decrease in the incidence of rape, especially gang rape. And contrary to what that gung ho father of sons thinks, reporters with their word processors only report the crime, they don't commit it. If one does, this columnist will surely be the first to write about it.

Let's move on to lighter subjects: General Motors may be the first automaker to take steps on the assembly line to help curb the number of highway deaths that occur each year due to drunk drivers. They are experimenting with a steering column device that will test a driver's reflexes and body responses before the car starts. If a driver's had to much to drink, the car won't start, and he'll be forced to sleep if off or call a cab. The big three automakers say the steering column device would be particularly useful in eliminating the repeat offenders from the highways.

Fred Johnson, of Woburn, may be raising eyebrows with his new line of Classic Caps by Mr. Fred of Woburn, but there's another item of clothing that's opening eyes and making big bucks for its marketers. It's the T-shirt. No, not just any T-shirt. It's a special line of T-shirts. There's a boutique in New York City that retails T-shirts for upward of two thousand dollars, which is slightly higher than the average industry price of about six bucks. According to the New Yorker, this Sixty-fourth Street boutique has a Salvador Dali original T-shirt selling for a mere fifty thousand dollars. If the Dali original isn't within your budget, how about a T-shirt dotted with small blinking lights that are powered by very, very small batteries? You can own one of those for about 49,800 dollars less than the Dali original. I think I'll stick with my Classic Cap by Mr. Fred.

As you sat in front of the tv watching the Boston Marathon last Monday (unless you were one of the lucky folks to observe the race in person), did you stop to realize that each runner raised his legs over 50,000 times during the twenty-six plus mile course?....A fellow reporter noted during the marathon that many female athletes are developing more and more of a male aura about the way they look and train. They're cutting their hair shorter and shorter, their sportswear is beginning to resemble mens apparel, and they're sounding more like men than ever in the locker room and on the courts, not to mention with the press, he felt. Well, that may or may not be true, but regardless of his observation, anything is better than male athletes getting to behave like females. Madison Avenue would have a difficult time selling that trend.

I just finished my tax return, and for the life of me, I can't understand why it's called the Internal Revenue Service. They're not providing me with any service, I'm providing them. It's more an Internal Revenue Dis-Service, if you ask me....Thackeray's Table & Tap, in Woburn, will be having a week-long celebration in June to mark their fifth year in business. According to Steve Beigbeder, part-owner and manager of the popular eating and drinking establishment, their will be prizes given away and many special surprises. The highlight will be Grosh hotair balloon rides. I'll have more on the big celebration later.

This is National Library Week, and coming up soon in this space will be this columnist's exclusive interview with horror writer Stephen King, who paid a visit recently to the Billerica Library in honor of NLW....Ironically, a tragic incident in New Bedford involving a library has been making headlines lately. A twenty-three-year-old pregnant woman was arrested for not paying a three dollar late charge on an over-due book from the library. Claiming she'd already paid the fine and returned the book, she asked to be released until the matter was cleared up because she was in danger of hemorrhaging. She was held for a short time anyway, and according to her attorney suffered a miscarriage as a result of the stress from the arrest. It turned out she had paid the fine, so the whole procedure would have been unnecessary, had the library and police been in better communication. Now the difficult task will be determining who is at fault for the miscarriage. In any case, there won't be a lot of celebrating going on at the New Bedford library this week.

Someone else who isn't doing any celebrating is actor Peter O'Toole, who, as you know, lost out in the Oscars race for best actor a week ago. He was so sure he wasn't going to win he was a guest on the David Letterman show at the same time the Oscars were being presented. Every year gossip columnists mention how many times Paul Newman and Dustin Hoffman have been nominated for best actor without ever coping the award. How about O'Toole? He's been nominated seven times and never won!

A sign seen by a reader on a highway in Mexico: "For welfare, go to Massachusetts, USA"....Hey, is that Ralph Frongillo, rising real estate tycoon from Woburn, in that Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm TV commercial? I recognize Dennis "Goody" Golden, also from Woburn, who's been doing a crack job of getting his video company off the ground. But Ralph Frongillo, real estate entrepreneur by day, actor by night? Well, I'll be, it is. I have it from a good source, that Ralph's next commercial has him wearing a Tarzan outfit and singing his heart out for a hardware chain. Onward and upward in the arts, as they say.

Jolly good, and cheerio.

Time for a vegetable garden!

Here it is spring, and there you are, a flat of tomatoes in one hand, a trowel in the other and one foot out the door to your garden. Well, wait a minute! Did you do any planning for this year's garden, or do you just have some rough ideas in your head? Most of us don't find it much fun, but planning is especially important to home gardeners because we garden in such small areas. Planning makes the best use of space, money and time, giving the highest yield of the best-quality produce. Some elements in planning are:

Know your site. What part gets full sun, where is it shady for part of the day? Are there any especially wet or dry spots?

Limit the size of your garden to what you can manage in the amount of time you want to spend gardening. A too-big garden can quickly become a weedy one.

Choose your crops carefully. The first thing to consider here is what your family likes. If they won't eat it, there's no point in growing it. Also important to consider: How much space will crop take? What is its nutritional value? How expensive is it to buy during the growing season? Is it hard to find fresh in the market?

Make a scale drawing of your garden plot. Measure it, mark which direction is south, and plan to orient your rows or beds east-west. Then review your crop list: What's tall (like staked tomatoes), medium (like broccoli), and short (like carrots)?

The tall crops should go toward the north, where they won't shade the shorter crops. By figuring out how much space your most important crops will take, you'll know how much room you have for less important or experimental ones. After allowing space for each crop, figure out how long it will fill that space and what, if anything, can be grown after it is harvested.

Now you're ready to go. You know the best place to put those tomato plants. Go out there with spade and sketch and fertilizer and lime and start the garden! For complete information on vegetable garden planning and culture, request the leaflet, "The Home Vegetable Garden" from the Middlesex County Extension Service, 105 Everett Street, Concord, Ma. 01742.

Douglas Usko, Executive Chef, Stouffer's Bedford Glen Hotel

By NANCY HALLIDAY

Spring is finally here! Crocus are up, birds are singing, spring fashions are everywhere, and the world looks bright and new.

In keeping with the changing season, Stouffer's Bedford Glen Hotel, Middlesex Turnpike, Bedford, recently hosted a "Chef's Table" in their Executive Kitchen, inviting several food editors to a "Tasting" of some new additions to the spring menu at Haviland's, the gourmet restaurant at Bedford Glen.

General Manager Donald R. Boomer greeted the group in the Executive Kitchen, where we sipped champagne and donned crisp white chef's aprons (a necessity, since we were also going to watch the three chefs cook their specialties at the massive restaurant ranges).

Douglas Usko, Executive Chef at Bedford Glen, explained that when the seasons change, various courses are changed also, to keep their restaurant menus interesting - and also to take full advantage of the freshest "in season" provisions.

The Executive Kitchen was spotless, with gleaming ranges and overhead hooks holding the various pots, pans, and other tools needed by the master chefs. Inconspicuously tucked into a corner of this utilitarian space, was a round table, splendidly set with creamy nappery, gleaming crystal wine glasses, shining silver, and a lovely bouquet of flowers. It was definitely inviting us to come and dine. And we did.

First on the "Tasting" list was an interesting hot appetizer, Forest Mushrooms, Fresh Pasta and Pesto. Next came a cold appetizer, a tasty arrangement of New England Scallops poached in wine with avocado, and a fan of strawberries.

High on my personal list was a delicious, chilled blackberry soup. Asking Chef Usko what was responsible for the elusive, delicate flavor, he replied with a grin, "It's laced with champagne." (The perfect answer).

Each presentation was brought to our table separately, having been cooked while we watched, and interesting comments and anecdotes by the chefs accompanied each dish.

Samplings of three intriguing entrees followed.

What turned out to be my personal favorite was Shad and Shad Roe, sauteed with bacon, pearl onions and lemon. It was delicately delicious. Also a gourmet treat were two other offerings: Chicken Breast laced with Armagnac brandy in a lemon garlic sauce, with mushroom pasta, and Roast Duck Oriental en papillote (parchment). The fragrant aroma from both was very heady.

As each course was sampled, appropriate wines were poured to accompany it. They included both foreign and domestic.

How do you bring such an exciting culinary escapade to a fitting finale?

It was easy for Chef Usko, as we found out. Dessert was a colorful Macedoine of luscious fresh fruit flambéed over rich vanilla ice cream. Delightful!

Our culinary excursion to the inner secrets of Bedford Glen Hotel's kitchens is over, but the memory of that delicious "Tasting" at the Chef's Table still lingers. A fitting gastronomic welcome to spring.

Functional furniture now popular

The trend in furniture purchases has moved from furniture groups and suites to individual functional pieces. This trend has been brought about by credit availability during the past two and a half years limiting consumers from purchasing high ticket items says Mary Mulvey Williams, Extension Home Economist for the Middlesex County Extension Service.

Manufacturers have produced single items that are both functional and attractive to fill this gap. Additionally, consumers are seeking specialized furniture to house their sophisticated stereos, computers, and home offices. Finally, space is a primary factor in choosing single pieces. New homes are smaller and people in existing homes with expanding families must utilize all available space rather than move to larger quarters.

Space-saving furniture in smaller scale, desks for work and study, storage units, and wall systems are increasing in sales. The wall systems now have units incorporating fold-out beds, dining tables, and desks, as well as storage units for curios, electronic equipment, china, and clothing.

Win a smoke detector

The Consumer Resource Council of Massachusetts is giving away a limited number of smoke detectors to help celebrate National Consumers Week (April 24-30), says Jill Desmarais, Home Economist for the Middlesex County Extension Service. The Consumer Resource Council is an organization of professionals from business, industry, education, social service, and government dedicated to combining their knowledge, experience and resources to better serve Massachusetts consumers. The Council is offering this Smoke Detector Giveaway during National Consumers Week to help focus attention on the importance of Consumer Safety.

1983-84 season

Sign up for Concerts

The Canterbury Trio, appearing on May 12, at 8:15 p.m. in the Stoneham Senior High School at 149 Franklin St. is a free concert for those who sign up for membership for the first time in the Greater Stoneham Community Concert Association.

Mr. Richard Mansur, President of the Association explains, "This means that people who purchase a new membership this Spring Season will be able to enjoy the Season's final offering, as well as all concerts of the coming 1983-84 Season."

Membership in the Community Concert Association is open during the week of May 1-7. Headquarters for the Membership Campaign will be the Stoneham Pharmacy in Stoneham Square. The hours will be 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday. Telephones are 438-7449 or 438-9232. Members on duty will be happy to receive memberships and answer all questions.

Everyone is invited to sign up for membership for the 1983-84 Season. Individual, student and family memberships are available at a very reasonable cost, as well as gift memberships. There is also an opportunity for community-minded citizens and music enthusiasts to support the concerts through the Sponsorship Program.

Mrs. Doris Dearth, Membership Chairman, points out, "Community Concert membership is within the means of a very modest budget. This is possible because of the major goal of Community Concerts - to bring excellent musical entertainment to the local area at a cost all can afford. Our goal is a full house."

Mr. Mansur adds, "We are able to bring such outstanding programs because of the excellent community support in the area. The better the community support, and the more memberships we obtain, then the more means to bring finer attractions."

Admission to the concerts is by membership card only. Memberships should be purchased during the Spring drive.

All concerts are held at the Stoneham Senior High School Auditorium at 149 Franklin St., a large auditorium with good viewing from all seats. There is always plenty of free parking, and the hall is within easy driving distance for patrons in Eastern Middlesex communities.

Also, the season ticket entitles the holder to any seat in the house, if the member wishes to arrive promptly.

Mr. Mansur announces the major concert, a very special group of singers and dancers, Jury's Irish Cabaret of Dublin, Ireland. This is a fresh, exciting, variety entertainment, a big, fast-paced show with a full measure of Ireland's best-known, best-loved music, humor, and dancing. Next season will be their fourth cross-continental tour of North America. The whole family will enjoy the best talent and traditions the Emerald Isle has to offer. The Boston Globe called them, "A ringing success".

The second offering will be Virginia Gene Rittenhouse, Violinist. Ms. Rittenhouse is well-known internationally for her virtuosity as a pianist, violinist, composer and conductor. She is on the faculty of the University of Hartford. She is well-known to our local audience, for she appeared during our last season as conductor of the New England Youth Ensemble, a group of talented, young musicians.

The third concert will be Harvey Pittel, Saxophone Quartet, offering chamber music to Duke Ellington, from Bach to Scott Joplin. All four members of the Quartet are experienced solo performers in their own right. The Los Angeles Times said of the group, "Their playing is subtle, refined and restrained, or abandoned, jazzy and swinging." This is a concert that should appeal to all tastes in music.

Members of Community Concerts who attended the concerts of the past season have expressed delight at the series presented to them by the Greater Stoneham Community Concerts. During the 38 year history of the Association, members have enjoyed many exciting performances by such artists as William Carter Dance Ensemble, Toccatas and Flourishes, Scotland on Parade, the New England Youth Ensemble, Gisela and her Flamenco Fiesta, the Texas Boys' Choir, the New Christy Minstrels, Max Morath in the Ragtime Years, Rostal and Schaefer, Duo-Pianists, Edmund Karlsrud, and the Men of Song, Donald Gramm, Baritone, the George Sheering Quintet, the Franz Liszt Orchestra of Budapest, the Albert McNeil Jubilee Singers, to name only a very few of the many outstanding concerts.

One of the fantastic privileges of Community Concert membership is the choice of thirty or more different concerts given by ten other Community Concert Associations in New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

Mr. Mansur remarks, "Few people believe us the first time we tell them about this Reciprocity arrangement. They think there has to be a catch to it - and there is. It does take a bit of thought and planning to attend out-of-town concerts with a group of friends. Many of our members attend concerts over a wide range, travelling in one car, sharing expenses, safely and inexpensively."

Over the years our members have seen such attractions as The Little Angels, the National Folk Ballet of Korea; Sandra Warfield, Mezzo-Soprano; The Hartford Ballet; The Young Americans in a Gershwin Festival; the Cline Thompson Dancers, the Ballet Folcloriso of Mexico, and many, many others.

Community Concerts has welcomed to Stoneham members from Lowell, Fitchburg, Worcester, Salem and Framingham, and New Hampshire cities.

Those who wish further information are urged to call Membership Headquarters during the week of May 1-7 or call Nancy Leavitt/or Carolyn Hall in the town of Reading/or Woburn.

The Board of the Association meets in the fall, a year before the concert season to choose and reserve concerts for the year ahead. Many variables of cost, additional expenses, availability of artists during our concert months, availability of the hall, must be considered. However, the most important consideration is the planning of a broad variety of music and dancing, instrumental, solo and group ensemble programs to suit many tastes in Musical entertainment, and age and family interests.

Greater Stoneham Community Concerts Association is affiliated with Community Concerts of New York City, a division of Columbia Artist Management. The New York based service assists the local volunteers with this "Organized Audience Plan" to assure no financial risk to any individual or group. All monies collected are used to bring the concerts to the local community, and to pay related expenses.

WOBURN? Medicare Improvements!

In Fiscal Year 1967, our government, through the Medicare program, spent $3.2 billion for personal health care. By Fiscal Year 1981, this figure had increased to $43 billion—a compound annual growth rate of 20 percent. Here are some more facts you may not know about one of our most vital government programs—Medicare—and what is being done to improve it.

- The number of Medicare beneficiaries—people age 65 and over—grew by nearly 50 percent between 1967 and 1982—from 19.5 to 29 million.
- Inpatient hospital care accounted for some two-thirds or 67 percent of Medicare expenditures in Fiscal Year 1982. Physicians and other health care suppliers accounted for just under a quarter of total expenditures, or 24 percent.

Dr. Paul Schade

Air Force Chaplain speaker

PHILADELPHIA BRAND dressings from Kraft, a new line of pourable dressings for salads, are being introduced nationally. Made with Philadelphia Brand cream cheese, the line is available in four varieties — Italian herb, toasted onion, garlic & chive, and cucumber. The dressings represent the first extension of the Philadelphia Brand name to another product category since its introduction in 1880.

The April 13 semimonthly meeting of Retired Men's Club featured as guest speaker, Rev. Dr. Paul G. Schade, Beverly, Dr. Schade, a retired Air Force Chaplain, now serving as interim minister at Greenwood Union Church was introduced by 1st V.P. Ralph Wentzel, Program Chmn.

After a couple of humorous stories of preacher vs. congregation, he got to the meat of his topic, "Things it took me too long to learn." He asked, "Do you remember the first person who took you seriously and did you ever get around to thanking them?" Returning from Japan in 1971, he learned that as a teenager, he was the first one who had taken a younger relative seriously. The realization that she meant something to someone, resulted in growth in the direction of mental health, a phrase which became the keystone of his discourse. Just as we help house plants thrive on nutrients, water and sunshine, we enhance human relationships with a smile or words of encouragement and congratulation.

As an Air Force Chaplain for 25 years, Rev. Schade spent most of his time in counseling. It would have been helpful in those years to be familiar with an hypothesis by psychologist Carl Rogers: "If any two people are intimately related and their relationship is characterized by these three things: (1) a warm positive regard (2) empathy (3) congruency; it is a psychotherapeutic relationship wherein both parties will have changes in them, in the direction of mental health." He rephrased the content in simple terms that left no one in doubt as to its import. When counselor and counselee are honest with each other, they both gain and grow from the experience. He told of a marriage between a Master-St. and a twice wed woman that took six months of counseling to save. Each party thought they had done the other a favor by marrying. The day was saved when they realized the truth. He then told about the Yankee gal married to a man of European origin. The romantic type always telling of his love and devotion. His wife had never said the word love more than three times in her life, felt that she was proving her love by the way she took care of the home, looked after the children, prepared his meals and deferred to his judgment in all important matters. In short, their problem seemed to be, he was speaking his love, but she was deaf, she was performing her love, but he was blind. Relationships give rise to all sorts of language, and if we grow old slowly, we may get to learn many of them.

Rev. Schade closed his interesting talk with a simple lesson in arithmetic. If a counselor sees twenty clients a week and has a meaningful relationship with each one, he not only is rewarded financially but has twenty chances to their one of growing in the 'direction of mental health.'

The customary refreshment and social period was ended at 9:45 by one tap on the opening bell by President Tom Coughlan. Announcement of attendance (292); a request to stand and 'Greet your Neighbor' (handshake); remain standing for the 'Flag Salute', has become a matter of ritual for the club. President Coughlan introduced first time visitors: Waldo Burnham, Lynnfield; Robert T. Dodge, Woburn; John K. Gantz, Melrose; Austin Jenkins, Stoneham; George R. Layhe, Reading; Robert S. Niven, No. Reading; Roscoe M. Roberts, Lynn; Marty P. Sherlock, Wakefield. The president gave membership cards to: Louis Gardner, Don Marshall, George Nesbitt and Leon Vogt.

Ray Smart read a letter of thanks from Ben and Jeanette Fiske, co-chairmen of the 12th annual Antiques Show and Sale in March. Several members served as security for the event. 2nd V.P. Les Merrifield read the birthday list and Bob Sproul led the greeting for the nine present. John Griffin reported on members ill at home, in hospital or rest homes. A moment of silence was observed in memory of James A. Fox; Martin Nyland and Lawrence Simpson. Bob Francis is making a real effort to become club storyteller, a spot long held by Loriston Stockwell. John Johnsen, Wakefield won Gus Seavey's door prize, a coin holder. Henry Murphy reported for the Stamp Club and the golfers. He mentioned the annual breakfast on April 27, 8 a.m.

President Coughlan commented that, "Paul Richmond's

'tho't for the day' is eagerly awaited at meetings." Dick Taylor announced that after our bowlers defeat Needham Retired Men, they will join our boys at the Hazelwood for luncheon, on the holiday. Prior to reporting plans for the upcoming travel season, Bob Sproul digressed for a moment to comment on what the second and fourth Wednesdays have come to mean in the lives of hundreds of retired men in Wakefield and vicinity. President Coughlan called on 1st V.P. Ralph Wentzel to announce future programs and introduced the speaker for the day.

Skate for thought

Coming Attractions

By William Pacino

Let's tempt your tastebuds with some seafood news.

A free taste-test of skate, a non-traditional seafood, will be conducted by the Massachusetts Division of Marine Fisheries at the Essex Aggie on April 30th and May 1st. Skate, also called raja, is a harmless relative of the sting ray and a delicacy in Europe. To assess the potential local demand of this native seafood, the Division's Seafood Marketing Program is offering Aggie visitors a taste of baked skate, and then having them fill out a questionnaire. The taste-test will be located in Berry Hall, on the Essex Agricultural and Technical Institute campus, Route 62, Danvers. Fair hours are 10 AM to 5 PM on Saturday, April 30 and 11 AM to 5 PM on Sunday, May 1.

North Reading Assembly No. 103, International Order of the Rainbow for Girls, will be holding its second annual lobster roll sale on Friday, May 6 at the Masonic Temple, corner of Park and Winter Streets in North Reading.

Based on an already excellent response from area businesses and individuals, the members of the Order are hoping to double last year's sale of over three hundred rolls.

The price of each lobster roll and a bag of potato chips is $3. Individual orders may be picked up at the Masonic Temple between 11 AM and 3 PM on May 6. All orders of five or more rolls will be delivered at no additional cost.

For further information, call 664-5372 or 664-2917.

MOVIES:

"Exposed", a James Toback Film starring Nastassia Kinski and Rudolph Nureyev in a story of international terrorism set against the world of sleek high fashion, opened across the U.S. and Canada on April 22. The starring cast also toplines Harvey Keitel, Ian McShane, Bibi Anderson, Ron Randell, and Pierre Clementi.

In related MGM/United Artists news, is the announcement of an agreement between MGM/UA and Cannon Group to have MGM/UA distribute all of Cannon's motion picture product in the United States and Canada.

Among the upcoming Cannon pictures to be released are: "Sahara", starring Brooke Shields; "Bolero", starring Bo Derek; "Hercules", starring L. Ferrigno; "The Wicked Lady", starring Faye Dunaway; "Over the Brooklyn Bridge", starring Elliott Gould and Margaux Hemingway; "Sword of the Valiant", starring Miles O'Keefe and Sean Connery; "The Naked Face", starring Roger Moore; and "The Ultimate Solution of Grace Quigley", starring Katherine Hepburn and Nick Nolte.

Ethnic dance and music

The Mandala Folk Dance Ensemble, the Northeast's leading international folk dance performing group, is presenting five Boston performances of ethnic dance and music from 12 countries at John Hancock Hall, 180 Berkeley Street, Boston.

on Friday, April 29 at 8 PM and Saturday, April 30 at 8 PM.

The 30 authentically-costumed dancers and musicians present a program with a startling breadth that ranges from an Armenian Lesginka to Appalachian clogging; from Bangladesh to Norway and from Mexico to Poland.

Tickets are available at the BOSTIX booth at Faneuil Hall or by calling 868-3641.

From taste-tests to putting out the fire, from new movies to familiar dance moves, COMING ATTRACTIONS has a little something for everyone. But if you feel we have missed your special upcoming event, write, care of this local newspaper and tell us all about it. Seafood taste-tests will only satiate us for a little while.

Miss Greater Lowell beauty pageant

LOWELL — Applications are now being accepted all over the Merrimack Valley area for the annual Miss Greater Lowell Beauty Pageant to be held before the public during Lowell Festival Week, Sunday, May 29, at 3 p.m. at the Civic Center. No talent is required.

All judging will be based on poise, personality, beauty of face and figure, and a response to an essay question.

Applicants must be between 16 and 24 years of age by May 29, 1983, never married, and must have resided in the Merrimack Valley area for at least six months. College dorm students are eligible.

The winner will receive a $400 savings bond, the first runner up gets a $100 savings bond and the second runner up gets a $50 savings bond.

All girls interested in competing for the title should contact Dorothy Caterino at pageant headquarters, The Finishing Touch Modeling School, 103 Central St., Lowell, by May 1.

Pageant officials urge those who wish to enter not to hesitate in getting your application in quickly.
